

KRAM 2-7-19 Commentary

The six student head editors created a news package each (planning, production, and editing), and then assembled the finished product together with in-class anchoring that they also directed and filmed. The finished piece is student created and run, and the head editors were the leadership that made it all happen.