

The Cerise family enjoys their first trip to the Yellowstone National Park.

Sophia McCrackin, Abigail Williams, Briar Wagner, Olivia McCrackin, and Hunter Campbell participated in a youth group trip to Missouri sponsored by New Hope Church.

Letting Loose for Summer

The summer is time for Cedaredge students and staff to unleash their inner selves.

When the hot months hit, Cedaredge High School Bruins use the time to take trips, participate in community programs, and do activities they love. Many people like senior Shannon Goff and the Cerise family visited nearby Yellowstone National Park. They experienced one of America's greatest sights by hiking around, visiting geysers, and connecting with nature.

Other ways students unleash themselves is to participate in community programs. Sophia McCrackin, Briar Wagner, Abigail Williams, and Hunter Campbell all went with the New Hope Church to participate in a retreat called Challenge. They went to sermons and community activities to learn and express their faith.

Having summer break to escape from their everyday lives helps students at CHS to create memories.

Shannon Goff enjoys her annual trip to Yellowstone National Park with her mom. While on the trip, she visited several of the geysers at the park.

Bradley Callenius catches a rock cod at Depoe Bay in Oregon with his grandparents. He woke up at the break of dawn to get out on the water and let out mackerel lures covered in squid puree.

Shannon Goff and Zoe Wood attend a Rockies game while participating in the Masonic band camp in Greeley.

Kaitlyn Toothaker and Elle Lewis enjoyed a summer of softball on the Rage team. They travelled around the state to participate in tournaments and played weekly games in Grand Junction.

Kiara Palmer stands in front of a mural in Telluride, CO. She spent her summer exploring nearby places like Telluride and far away places like San Francisco. One way she unleashes her inner self is to see new places and experience the world.

Azalee Hoffbauer attended a leadership program at Denver University. She connected with students her age and made lifelong friends.

Mr. Cerise holds up his catch! He traveled with his family to Bif Fork Lake.
