

SHOOT AND SCORE

8th Grade Girls B-ball is ready to play.

8th Grade Girls Basketball gather around their coaches to discuss their game plan, Nov. 8. The Nighthawks were playing against Sage Wood Middle School and ended up winning the game. "We are all friends and it's a really good environment to be in and I look forward to coming to practice every day." Ava Packard (8) said. Packard and her team encourage each other to do better and work well together.

Photo by: Alivia Ball

FRIENDS AT THE FOOD COURT

Chaz Barnett (7) smiles with Max Simms (7) while at the food court, Nov 2. "I like field trips because they are a good activity and gives us a break from school," Barnett said. Many students enjoy the break from school while still remaining academic in their activities.

Photo by: Ava Blanco

WALKING MALL

Andrew Beauchamp (7) leaves Park Meadows Mall after eating food in the food court, Nov 2. "The food court was the best part because we get to hang out with our friends," Beauchamp said. Beauchamp liked being able to go outside of school with his team.

Photo by: Ava Blanco

CULTURAL EXPERIENCE

Madilyn Proctor (7) focuses as she watches her friends, Nov 2. "I enjoyed the different cultures of dancing and that I got to hang out with my friends," Proctor said. She enjoyed the cultural aspects that were included in the play.

Photo by: Ava Blanco

MEET ME AT THE MALL

Expeditioners go to Park Meadows Mall

Spread by: Alivia Ball and Jon Michael Herskovits

Students Featured below: Tyler Kennelly, Cody Jaramillo, Wyatt Richardson, Phoebe Saeger, Lauren Pflieger, Alex Pacheco, Ethan Nohavec,

34

Fall

"Uniting means getting together and accomplishing things."
-David Soria

Photos by: Jon Michael Herskovits

SPANISH SPIRIT

Spanish class decorates sugar skulls for Día de Los Muertos.

Photo by: Kelsey Brown

Sugar skulls are a clay molded sugar in the form of a skull, which is then decorated with beads and colorful feathers. In Spanish class, the students take on their own interpretation of the Día de Los Muertos decoration.

Jamie Horan (7) works on making her own sugar skull, Nov 1. Horan enjoyed learning about the culture and getting to put her own creativity into the project. "I liked to learn about the sugar skulls because it taught me about a different culture," Horan said.

Photo by: Kelsey Brown

Photo by: Kelsey Brown

OUTSTANDING ARTIST

Katilyn McGurran (7) works on her sugar skull on, Nov 1. "I would make the sugar skulls again because it is a great expression of your creativity," McGurran said. Language is a form of art and in Spanish the students got to express their creativity.

Photo by: Kelsey Brown

DESIGN, PAINT, DECORATE

Mia Graef (8) watches as her friends create their own sugar skulls in their Spanish class celebration of the dead, Nov 1. She observed everyone's originality through art work during the class period. "I enjoyed painting them, decorating them and being able to design the sugar skulls with the help of my friends," Graef said.

Students Featured Below: Devon Dexter, Sofia Dellano, Savannah Ryan, Jenna Patterson, Jessica Derickson, Will Pardew, Cruz Jaramillo, Zachary Ruiz

"We are friends because we have just been there for each other."
-Sofia Dellano

Nov. 5-9 35

