

NOAH CASTANEDA

What is something in your personal life that has impacted you?
 I Swim. I am part of a high school team. Year round, I participate in the HRCA Swim Club and during the spring there is a high school swim team. It is a lot of fun, actually. I have a lot of friends that I have made in these swim groups.

Why swimming?

I had troubles with normal team sports, and in third grade, I moved to Finland. It was a really fun experience, I only had one friend at the time, which I have known since we were babies. So, I went to school there, and it was a great experience. I met a lot of people. I wasn't really that smart when I went there, but when I came back it was a lot better. I was doing a lot better in school after I went to Finland. That's why I am her, I wouldn't have started swimming or switched schools.

What are some extra-curricular activities that you participate in?
 I work and volunteer for a group called LetsTalk. They are a group where most people use AAC devices (augmentative communication devices) to talk. These devices can be controlled by eye movement or joysticks. This device allows people to form their own sentences, giving them the opportunity to communicate with others. These people use computers, or headsets in order to communicate. The group focuses on going out to share the message that these people still want to communicate, and they can still do pretty much everything a normal person can. These wonderful ladies will go out, and recently they hosted a play, where we had speaking actors and non speaking actors. The group also did a "What's your Everest," where all the girls in wheel chairs were pulled up by a ropes team and completed a 5-mile hike.
