

OH MY GOSH.

Whose idea was it to start school at 7:30 in the morning?

Literally no one is awake right now!

BUT...

Virtually no wait on my Cloud Macchiato? I see it, I like it, I want it... I got it!

Traffic is SO FREAKING BAD! And I swear it's not even the students... it's the parents!

Looks like I'm running up from J-lot today..

BUT...

Maybe today I'll actually reach my step goal.

Excuse me?!? I just passed like three accidents on the way to school.

Should have been a snow day..

You literally can't see the lines! I'm TOTALLY gonna be on MoHi Bad Parking!!!

BUT...

That two-hour delay and an extra hour of sleep..

I literally just woke up and all I want is to go back to bed.

Being a person is sooo exhausting..

But... I can't wait to throw on the wheel third period

photo by elizabeth danekind

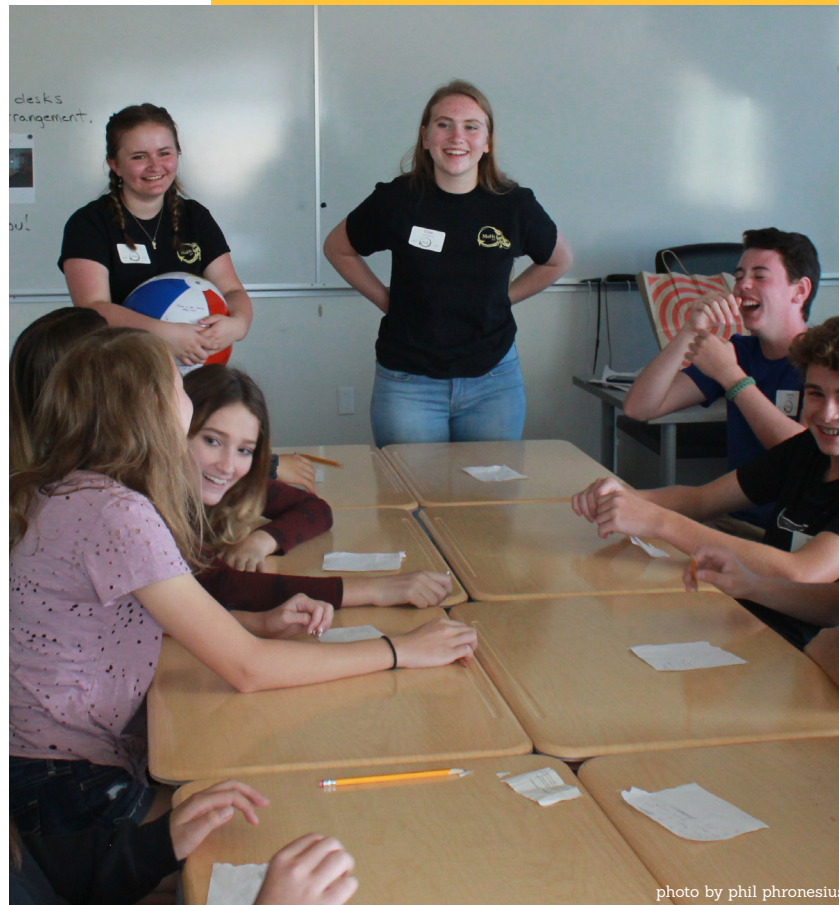

photo by phil phronesius

photo donated by beatrixe gerrish

SO I PUT MY HANDS UP.. Jayce Knott (11) throws her hands up at a football game. The cheer team made every game special, cheering the team and fans to victory. "I love cheering on the crowds and encouraging the student section and pumping up the energy for all the games. I think it's fun." Knott said. AN ALLY FOR OTHERS 360 leaders Avery Evans (11) and Elise Gooding-Lord (11) play a game with freshmen on the first day of school. "I liked being able to help freshmen become more comfortable with Monarch and [being] an ally for them." Evans said. BOOKS ARE BETTER Kaylee Nance (9) loved Battle of the Books because it encouraged her to read new genres. "I'm a really avid reader so it was really fun to read different books that I might not normally read and then also test myself on how well I actually understood them," Nance said.

you know
YOU LOVE IT.