

We stood our ground. Obstacles thrown at us, scraping our skin, but never stopping us. Walls rose up from the ground, but we just treated them as hurdles. When there were dead ends, we tried another path. We were just too smart for them. The people who expected us to fail, the people who tried to convince us we will fail, were never worth listening to.

As a school, we broke the $100,000 national record for Bald 4 Bucks. As a community, we howled our school cheer with pride in our restored gym.

As individuals, each one of us have made this year our own.

A path was laid out for us, an expected road we should take, but we have thrived creating our own. Some of us chose to endure the rewarding hours of marching band. Others took the stage, retelling the written words of Anne Frank. And all of us chose the path where we did not submit to what society told us to be.

But our paths do not stop here. They do not stop when we get the diploma, when we say goodbye to the Ram statue, or when we run to the mountains in summer. We will continue to create our own paths, all leading to something different.

We Will Continue to Be

BOUNDLESS

Sarah Tomovich '19 reaches out during her performance for the Newsies number in Ramantics. The show was a great opportunity for students to show off their acting and singing skills and to express themselves creatively. "I joined Ramantics because I have a passion for performing and for theatre. It gives me the opportunity to explore how much I can do whether it's comedy or just dancing. Ramantics is just a big family and you get to know a bunch of people-- its a big community that supports each other," said Tomovich.
