

Said.
With pride
What's one place you want to travel to?

"Hawaii because it's something different and would be fun to experience."
Saul Gonzales,
 sophomore

"Europe because it seems cool and I have always wanted to learn the culture there."
Zadaya Perez,
 freshman

"Hawaii because I've always wanted to go since I was a little kid and it is a pretty place."
Cyrus Madrid,
 freshman

Before coming to the United States, junior Johanne Langva spent every Friday with her friends in the centrum of Oslo. Langva went out to eat and went to shops in Oslo, Norway for 3 years. "I'm just excited to see my friends again and get back to our tradition," said Langva.

After practicing English skills with the neighborhood kids, Mrs. Tammy Benabides stands in front of her Rondavel. Mrs. Benabides served in the Peace Corps in Lesotho, Africa. "We would work on English skills, play games, and sing songs," said Mrs. Benabides. "They always kept me company."

Travel.

Traveling abroad is exciting & a rare experience

Whether it's learning a new culture, experiencing a new opportunity, or simply going on vacation, traveling to a new place will impact lives in one way or the other.

Some people get to travel abroad as often as once a year. Freshman Alexander Rupp goes to Russia every single summer and spends time on his grandparents' farm.

However, other people get to go to a new country just once in their lifetime. Junior Kailey Ramsay went to London at the end of December 2017 and into January of 2018.

Ramsay got the chance to go to London because she was chosen for All American Cheerleading, along with senior Tiara Taylor and graduate Santana Martinez. The selected cheerleaders that were chosen danced in the New Year's parade.

English teacher Tammy Benabides traveled to Lesotho, Africa with the Peace Corps from October of 2004 to December of 2006 where she helped people there with their English skills and more.

Another example of students traveling overseas is Roemer Buitennuis, a foreign exchange student from the Netherlands. Buitennuis thinks that the US differs from the Netherlands in the way people act and the living conditions.

Most people that travel to another continent or country agree that it is a unique adventure that not many people get to experience.

Ramsay said, "It was definitely a once in a lifetime experience to get to go to London as a sophomore."

Spread by Taelyn Sickelbower

Said.
With pride

What was your experience from traveling?

London

It was a once in a lifetime experience that not many people do. Touring the city was the best part.

Kailey Ramsay junior

Philippines

Learning the culture was my favorite part. It changed my life for the better and taught me skills for life today.

Mr. Daniel Hall, teacher

During the summer, Alexander Rupp, freshman helps his grandparents farm in Russia. Rupp goes to Russia every summer with his dad to help his family. "Using the new and different technology is the main part I look forward to," Rupp said.

At the beginning of her trip to Amsterdam, junior Ashley Guevara spent one of her days at the RijksMuseum. Guevara went to Amsterdam for a month in the winter of her sophomore year. "It was always a struggle when someone would try to talk to me, since I didn't know the language," Guevara said.