

BLAST THE BASS

Boppin' Beats. Music is a way to escape from the outside world and a way to focus on certain tasks. Gabe Cruz-Heaton uses music to "distract myself from life." The sophomore class took a survey to vote for their favorite song. The top choice was "Goodie Bag" by Still Weezy.

MORNING MINDS

What are your thoughts when you first wake up in the morning?

1. "I think about whatever I dreamed about. I try to remember whatever it was." Roanan Gallaher

2. "I like to eat a lot I guess. I usually think about bagels. I love bagels."

Sarah Knutson

3. "I actually think about what I am going to eat for the rest of the day. What's for dinner?" Aaron Arndt

WORKING HARD or hardly working

Students are given a bigger workload than they expected, compared to their freshman year. Some students like Henry Huynh stayed up until 12 a.m. doing their homework. Likewise, Cameron Clarke admitted to procrastinating quite a lot, and claimed "I try to do my best work. I try to give the good ole' razzle dazzle, but usually it ends up not being my best work." Hadley Coughenour is similarly guilty and said, "I procrastinate with my homework and wait until the last minute, which doesn't work out very well."

An Explanation for Procrastination. With so much challenging work for students to complete, they have to decide what to work on and what to leave for later. Mitra Farjadi admitted that "I procrastinate often because JA gives so much work at once that it's hard to get done. My work usually turns out worse when I do it last minute but sometimes it just depends on how difficult the class is."
