

IT'S A SMALL WORLD

OH THE PLACES YOU'LL GO

There are several world travelers in our midsts. Sierra Bruha (8) spent two weeks in Italy with her family visiting major cities and learned about their culture and architecture. "We went to Rome, Florence and Treviso. I learned how to speak some Italian and how old some things were there," Bruha said. Visiting family in Russia, Rumina Nuriyeva made new memories with her family. "All my family is there and we never really visit them. We made these little dolls with my grandma and we talked to her a lot," Nuriyeva said. Traveling to Germany, London and Belgium with family wasn't all Austin Zenyah (7) did. He went to Argentina with his soccer team to play with kids who were less fortunate than them. "My coach is from Argentina, and so he planned a trip for the team. I really enjoyed connecting with them through the sport," Zenyah said. However, that's not all that happened. "We went shopping at this place, which was sketchy enough. Then we got out and the bus had been broken into and our bags had been taken," Zenyah said. Despite everything that happens on their travels, they always find their way back home.

CANADA
"I really liked seeing all of the cities and Niagara Falls. I thought that was pretty cool."
Tristan Pippin (7)

RUSSIA
"They care about what you wear. You can't wear ripped clothes."
Rumia Nuriyeva (7)

CUBA
"We got to walk around the buildings and we got to see the culture and everything."
Madison Berg (8)

AUSTRIA, ITALY
"I really like seeing all the different cultures and listening to how different people communicate there."
Sierra Bruha (8)

PAKISTAN
"We rode camels. It was actually kind of scary because when they get down they tip over."
Misha Syed (8)

GERMANY, LONDON, BELGIUM, ARGENTINA
"The kids in Argentina live much differently than us. We connected through soccer, which I really enjoyed."
Austin Zenyah (7)

FROM ONE COUNTRY TO ANOTHER HER SUMMER WAS NO BUMMER

For a family vacation, Olivia Beissel (7) looks over her balcony in Mexico Jul. 29, before she has to go home. "My favorite part was swimming with the dolphins because I had never done it before and I like trying new things," Beissel said. This was her second time going to Mexico. "The first time I went was the summer of 2017," Beissel said. She enjoyed the food but had favorites. "My favorite foods to eat were the fruits and pasta, but I also liked the seafood," Beissel said. Some of the other authentic Mexican foods she enjoyed were the tacos and the guacamole. Photo courtesy of Olivia Beissel
