

During the "Hey Song" junior Kailey Ramsay does the Go Savages dance at the Powwow with the rest of her team. The cheerleaders did their dance, while the band played, before they announced their names. "I love cheer because I like getting to support all the teams," Ramsay said. "We get the crowds involved and show everyone what we can do."

Photo by Katie Emick

The Games.

Students play in competitive games hosted by StuCo

Junior Gabe Estrada serves the ball in a game of Brute Volleyball. Estrada played on C2; the team placed second in the tournament on Monday.

During the Powwow, senior Taylor Chavira swings a softball in pantyhose to knock down water bottles. This game was called the 'Elephant Game.'

In a game called 'Hungry Hippos' junior Billy Ramsay and sophomore Caleb King try to grab as many balls as they can. King and Ramsay won the game, collecting 13 balls.

Playing on the winning team, senior Sandra Villasenor waits for the play to begin in the Powderpuff football game.

HOCO.

It's more than just a dance

Homecoming week is five days full of fun, memorable activities for all students to enjoy.

For some, Homecoming is all about the dress up days. This year the days were Sports Day Monday, Frat Boy Tuesday, Hippie Day Wednesday, and Orange and Black Thursday.

Junior Ethan Settles enjoys the dress up days when everyone gets involved. Settles thinks that this incorporates fun into school.

Other students, like junior Jennifer Gomez love the games that go on during Homecoming week, such as Powderpuff football.

"I get to enjoy all the memories," Gomez said. "Powderpuff is fun because I get to lay people out."

The other games included were Brute volleyball on Monday, Powderpuff on Tuesday, and then of course the Powwow games on Wednesday.

The last event of the week is also some student's favorite. Sophomore Sage Higbee enjoyed the dance more than any other part of the week.

"I think the dance is just full of positive energy," Higbee said. "Everyone's having a good time."

Each student has specific memories from Homecomings. Settles' favorite memory is from freshman year, dancing with all his friends.

Whether students are painting their faces for Orange and Black Day, pulling tags in a football game, or jumping up and down to a favorite song, Homecoming week is full of memories that will last a lifetime.

Spread by Katie Emick

Juniors Walker Kee and Sy Spitz pull the rope in a Tug O' War game against the senior class. The junior class lost. "Being at the Powwow is fun," Kee said. "I get to be with my friends."

Photo by Katie Emick

Celebrating a point in Brute Volleyball, juniors Gabby Marquez jumps in the air. Marquez coached C' 20. The team placed 2nd in the tournament. "It gets more competitive coaching boys," Marquez said. "It's cool to see how boys play."

Photo by Katie Emick