Teacher Spirit

How does it feel when you're dressed up while teaching?

Mr. Blazey said, "It's really hard to teach with a big, floppy hat on!"

Ms. Watson said, "It was really fun. I didn't really think about what I was wearing. Wearing a historical outfit in history was awesome."

Mrs. Edbrook said, "It doesn't bother me because I am modeling the behavior I want to see when I dress up."

Mr. Burgess said, "It made me feel brand new and it made me feel good because the students saw I had spirit."

Mrs. Nitchoff said, "Homecoming is my favorite week; we get to dress up and be a part of the Eagle Nation."

Ryan Capasso, 12
Dylan Torres, 12

A couple of the many highlights of the assembly included Sean O'Brien, 12, doing his famous "Put them in a body bag" that always gets the crowd hyped up. Another great surprise was one of the judges being John Hetlinger, star of America's Got Talent and the biggest rockstar to ever come through Broomfield.

Madagascar Monday

Madagascar Monday started Around the World spirit week off right. Giuseppe Iacovetta, 12, and Douglas Wilder, 12, were ready to show off their outfits which they called "very accurate." Some dressed up as tour guides and tourists, while others were safari animals. Cole Velez, 9, who dressed up as a giraffe, said, "I'm excited for my first homecoming week. I think my favorite spirit day will be Bahamas day." Natalie Kaufman, 9, was showing her freshman pride and said, "My favorite spirit day is class color day." Davonte Ford, 9, said, "I'm excited to dress up for Bahamas day, but I am most excited for Saturday so I can party at Homecoming." While the three freshmen had a lot of school spirit, they didn't have much faith in their class, they all agreed that "The freshmen won't win spirit week."

4-Peat 4 Seniors

Class of 2019 continues streak

THE BLEACHERS were rumbling louder than ever as the four competing classes were ready to show off their school spirit. The freshmen and juniors were climbing an uphill battle to defeat the sophomores and seniors.

One of the most exhilarating events during the assembly was the performance of the junior and senior spirit boys. Both cheer squads were dressed in crop tops and short skirts to fit the part. The cheerleaders and poms girls worked hard to put together a routine that was jaw dropping to the entire school. Both the juniors and seniors were able to pull off some pretty impressive stunts involving flips and kicks high up in the air. Though both teams stunned the bleachers with their performances, the juniors took the win. Grant Williamson, 11, was one of the star roles in leading the juniors to their victory. He said, "We practiced three days a week. It wasn't always focused, but we pulled it together in the end. It was scary to be in the air at first, but I had a great team of people catching me." Never before achieved in Broomfield High School history, the class of 2019 was able to win the spirit week contest all four years.

As the assembly went on, the seniors grew more and more nervous as they were not winning any of the events or games. After the tough loss with their spirit boys, the seniors knew they had to be louder than ever if they wanted the "4-peat." Bryce Spencer, 12, senior class president and student council executive, was getting worried. She said, "At first we were behind the juniors by one point and I knew we had to be the loudest to win so I tried to get the crowd excited."

BLEEDING BLUE

Eagle spirit days were easily one of the school's favorite occasions, having fun with the pre-homecoming festivities. It was a great way to bring the students together and to show our Eagle pride by dressing up in Eagle blue.

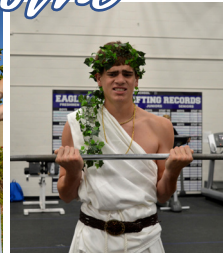

Togally Awesome

John-Luc Harbour, 10

Roy Finnegan, 12

Mark Georgiton, 11

"I really liked toga day because it brought out my Greek freak. I felt like an authentic Greek. I also liked it because I could use my toga as a blanket to sleep in class."

"Toga day was the best because I got to go to the Halloween store to buy my toga. I was not going to settle for a bed sheet. I had to go all out because go seniors!"

"I liked the comfort and air flow of the toga and I felt very masculine. Togas could be my daily outfit. They are probably more comfortable than any other clothing item."

Everybody did a great job dressing up for toga Tuesday! Students were able to get creative with the design of their togas. Some students used bed sheets, some bought costumes, and others cut shirts. It really felt like Broomfield took a trip to Greece!

'TIS THE SEA-SUN

Jacy Pringle, 12
Madeline Hahn, 11

As the tide rolled in for homecoming week, beach balls, bathing suits, and boogie boards were surfing throughout the halls. Bahamas day was a breeze as the students and staff showed off their favorite beach attire. Cowabunga Eagles!
