

"I didn't expect to end my high school career in this way, but I'm so glad that I did. To be honest, if I received backlash I would've definitely questioned my choice to join the team. But this school really backed me up and made this experience one that I'll always keep close to my heart. I'm so grateful to be a part of such an amazingly accepting school and student body. I think as time goes on it will only continue to grow in this way. I'm excited to see where it eventually grows."

—Nathaniel Henderson '19

REVEAL

For the three years I have been on the Eaglecrest yearbook staff, I have observed students REVEALING that there is no routine. It's not just rushing to school by 8:20. It's not just trying to stay awake during your first period class. It's not just trying to slip through the door to avoid the daunting yellow slip. It's not just trying to make it to Chipotle and back in 35 minutes.

We are more than just red, black, and white. Yearbook has given me the opportunities to view student life through a wider lens. I was on the field when Ty Robinson '21 caught the one-handed touchdown during Grandview's Homecoming game. I took a moment to look back to my peers, to find a joyful student section. What I found was a red sea of pom poms being waved through the air as students shared a hug with anyone nearby. This REVEALS the unity that comes out in a game-changing moment.

The distribution day from the perspective of a yearbook student is much different than how my peers perceive it. Everyone is excited to flip to see what pages their on. I get a feeling of adrenaline when I get to REVEAL what I have produced for my classmates. Yearbook has to find the stories that are worth telling and choose the memories that people will look back on.

There is more to us than not only what others see, but even what we see in ourselves. This book REVEALS to the student body they are worth more than they realize. At Eaglecrest it's important to REVEAL to ourselves, our rivals, and our peers what we have to offer.

Copy and coverage by Allison Avery and Sarah Fowler, photo by Madeline Crespo

DANCING A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION
Nathaniel Henderson '19 performs at Nest Fest. He is the first male to join the Dance Team.