

ORDER ON THE COURT

TEAMWORK MAKES A DREAM WORK

"Sportsmanship makes me feel more like a leader."
Benjamin Knox (7)

"Sportsmanship keeps everything going. Without sportsmanship everything would fall apart."
Matthew Higgs (7)

"Sportsmanship makes you have to respect the people you play against."
Kaden Clay (7)

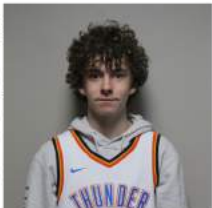

"You don't want to be that guy on the team who is mean to everyone."
Alex Konecny (7)

"Sportsmanship is important to me because it helps me build habits like teamwork and friendship."
Lucas Robinson (8)

"Sportsmanship is important because you want all of your teammates to feel appreciative."
Owen Clarke (8)

"Sportsmanship is important because if you lose, then you know what you want to do better next time."
Tyler Hogan (7)

"Sportsmanship has taught me to not give up,"
Ethan Wieter (7)

UNTILL WE FALL HOOPS, THEY DID IT AGAIN

Designed and written by Gavin Weiskopf, Tabor DeFore, and Claudia Coleman

With a loud crowd and big competition, basketball player Dillen Coney (8) knows his team is going to win, March. 2. "After we won we celebrated as a team and celebrated our victory," Coney said.

Coney plays center and enjoys the support by his teammates. Coney wants to play on a professional league when he grows up. "Basketball has always been a passion to me and I enjoy the competition in games," Coney said. Coney's team has been undefeated for the season. "You know your team is the best of the best when you step into the finals," Coney said. Coney's passion dedicates him to continue with basketball in his future.

LEAVE YOU IN COURT
HOOPS, THERE IT IS

First year teacher and coach, Mr. Jinho Tohara helps students learn how to play basketball Feb. 25. Mr. Tohara grew up with basketball and wanted to teach students what his dad taught him. "My dad was a really big influence, he coached me in different sports," Mr. Tohara said. Photo by Gavin Weiskopf

1. PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT

Stretched to the end, basketball player Ace Malone (8) warmed up before practice, Feb. 25. "It's important to have a competitive team that will try harder to win. With a team that isn't competitive, they don't hustle and they don't try as hard," Malone said. Photo by Cooper Widholm.

2. BASKETBALL FOR ALL

Basketball player, Damon Warnick (8) prepares for his game against Mesa, Feb. 13. Warnick played on the C team and had Mr. Forrest Sheets as his coach.

"Sportsmanship is important to me because without sportsmanship, it's hard to work together as a team, and with a team that works well together you can accomplish more," said Warnick. Photo by Tabor DeFore.

3. EVALUATE YOUR GAME

Defended his shot, basketball player Landon Keathley (8), makes his shot, Feb. 25.

"Sportsmanship is what makes the team fun. Without sportsmanship everyone is against each other," Keathley said. Photo by Gavin Weiskopf.

4. IN IT TO WIN IT

Hustled to keep the ball, basketball player Myles Anderson (8) makes his shot, Feb. 11. Anderson has played basketball since he was five.

"Sportsmanship is important because it's what builds your team. Without sportsmanship nobody would want to win the game," Anderson said. Photo by Gavin Weiskopf.

5. SHOOT FOR THE HOOPS

Basketball player, Archer Vansickel (8) practices his skills for the upcoming game, Feb. 26.

Vansickel's coaches, Mr. Forrest Sheets, Mr. Frank Pilone, and Mr. Jinho Tohara helped him prepare and learn new shots. "If you don't have sportsmanship, there's no point in being on a team because everyone should be fair to each other," Vansickel said. Photo by Gavin Weiskopf.

6. READY OR NOT

Ready to bring the heat, basketball player Colton Bellamy (8) huddles with his team before the game, Feb. 11. Bellamy has played basketball for five years. "If you create any beef on the court your team will turn against you," Bellamy said. Photo by Gavin Weiskopf.

"Sportsmanship has taught me how to be a better teammate and a better friend," Vivian Mann (7)