SIMPLY SOLVING. Straight out of a lesson, Bella Savarise (8) and Sophia Sabus (8) team up together to solve their daily math assignments. Using programs such as Big Ideas and Khan Academy, students of Mrs. Hoeff's algebra class continued their practice on linear equations. "I like that I can collaborate with my peers, and bounce our ideas off of each other," stated Savarise.

BOOKS GALORE. Captivated by the variety of books, Emmy Pocsi (8) and Evan Grkinich (8) visit the school's annual Scholastic Book Fair. "No matter where you look, you can always find a book you'll like," stated Pocsi. Opened to students for the week, the earnings from the book fair were donated to the school's library for purchasing new books. PLANNING AHEAD. Contemplating classes for next year, Jacob Sweeney (8) hears the complications of high school courses. Along with every other eighth grader, Sweeney met his high school counselor and learned the new opportunities that go with registration.
