

Traveling to Park Meadows Mall

7th Grade Adventurers take a field trip to the mall

1. Japanese Soda

Kaden Montz (left) (7), and Luke Christenson (right) (7) watch Rett Zirker (7) try to open a Japanese Soda from Shanghai 360, Oct. 1. Montz, Christenson, and Zirker enjoyed the freedom the teachers gave them when they went on the field trip. "It was very exciting to go to the mall and spend time with my friends," Montz said.

2. Panda Party

Canyon Scott (left) (7), and Sophia Levesque (right) (7) are talking to each other about how delicious their Panda Express is at the Park Meadows Mall, Oct. 1. When Scott and Levesque watched the play they had the opportunity to make connections between the books and the plays. "I really enjoyed watching The Monkey's Paw play because it was very interesting," Scott said.

3. Talking Fun

Charli Conrad (right) (7) eats Panda Express at the Park Meadows Mall with Isabella Orner (left) (7), and Isabel Banks (7), Oct. 1. Conrad, Orner, and Banks enjoyed spending time together. "My friends and I had a delightful experience because I liked going to the mall and watching the plays," Conrad said.

Nighthawks Got Talent

Students share their various skills

Strum those Strings

Owen Olds (8) displays his skills in guitar class, Oct. 23. Olds works hard to improve his guitar skills in fingerstyle which is when the fingers pluck the strings instead of a pick. "I play because it's my passion and it's a nice break from all the school work we have," Olds said.

Strike Out

Ronald Bereit III (6) gets ready in a bowling stance in the Cliffhanger pod, Oct. 22. Bereit III gets relaxed when he goes bowling and likes bowling more than other sports. "I like to bowl to get my anger out because throwing a heavy ball at very weak pins makes me feel better," Bereit III said.

Serving it up

Morgan Buston (7) shows off an overhand serve from volleyball outside the chalets, Oct. 22. Buston has been playing over a year and practicing her serves in 7th grade volleyball, it's necessary to know how to serve to play the game. "I play volleyball to show off my skills, meet new people, and hang with friends," Buston said.

1. Biking through

Hans Ketwig (7) rides his bike to and from school, Oct 23. On an average winter, school has about three people bike. The school has a lot of different biking trails around. "It's fun to bike because you can adventure with friends after school," Ketwig said. About 80% of students prefer to ride the bus rather than other transportation. Your buses could be a far walk from your house.

2. Busy Bus

Avery Weise (7) rides the bus to school. Riding the bus allows students to catch up with friends that they don't see daily. There is a wide variety of buses, ranging from neighborhood to neighborhood. More than half the school rides the buses. "I like taking the bus because I can talk to my friends that are on other teams," Weise said. Majority of the students ride the bus.

3. Adventures to Home

Owen Ross (7) walks to school, Oct 23. The average walking times from local neighborhoods is 15 minutes. Walking allows students to get their daily workout. Lots of people walk in groups to and from school. "I like walking to school, because it is good exercise," Ross said.
