

if you FELT OUR SPIRIT

Students and staff spend many weeks and class periods preparing for the biggest assembly of the year, Eagle Scream. Teams represented a decade and competed in activities and games showing school spirit. by C. Himango

Ugh! The gym is so crowded. The noise is giving me a headache. Everyone is chanting. Castle Peak won that too? Time for dances! I know this song! I'm gonna sing along. Did he just do a back flip?!

Our first rally is crazy and exciting. "Eagle Scream is so exciting because you feel a sense of competition and yet everyone is still on one team," Alek Hartleben, 08, said.

Students like to show pride in their school at this assembly. "Eagle Scream is when we are able to show school and team spirit. We put lots of effort into everything and planned everything out," Nathan Gould, 07, said.

The culture at Eagle Scream is simply different. "There is nothing that beats the culture and experience at Eagle Scream. The bonding done between friends on that day is special," Ryken Daugarrd, 08, said.

Ducking towards an inflatable tire, Kaylee Lashier, 08, is feeling the adrenaline rush that comes on at Eagle Scream. This rally in September showcased the excitement and competitive spirits of the school to her. "It was cool to be chosen for the game. I loved hanging with friends and competing," Lashier, 08 said. photo by M. Nelson

KAYLEE LASHIER
Eagle Scream Rally

"It gives me goosebumps to see the students and teams competing, being engaged, and working together."

-Tamra Maupin, Staff

1. Gazing onto her first Eagle Scream, Malea Yoximer, 07, holds the Team Colorado River flag. They were representing the 90's and made their flag based on the classics of the decade. "We worked really hard on that flag, painting it and then adding cutouts," Yoximer said. photo by M. Okelley. 2. The life of the party, Cole Whittingham, 08, raises his old school boombox before the games. Cole got into costume for Torreys' Peak and found Eagle Scream very fun and enjoyable. "I loved 80's day, it was like the best day of my life, people were talking to me and I was just happy," Whittingham said. photo by M. Nelson. 3. Noah Archuleta, 08, cheers on his team during Eagle Scream. Noah enjoyed the experience with his friends and is sad to miss it next year. "We all get so into the school spirit and it is such a cool day that I will never forget," Archuleta said. photo by M. Nelson.

4. On the gym floor, Brooklyn Pfannensteil, 08, is excited to dance for Castle Peak and represent their energy and spirit. "That day was a nice break from normal school activities and I had so much fun with my friends," Pfannensteil said. photo by W. Beller. 5. Showing off props, Ella Tholstrom, 07, and Gianna Walter Conti, 07, hold Pinky and Clyde cutouts. Representing the 80's, Team Rio Grande went all out with Pacman. "Our theme was really cool and the chant that I helped make was definitely the best part," Tholstrom said. photo by W. Beller. 6. Natalia Rodriguez, 08, focuses on her moves during the rally. Her team, Castle Peak, won this category along with all the others. "I didn't want to mess up and wanted to win which we did. It was stressful preparing but in the end was worth it," Rodriguez said. photo by M. Nelson