

CAN'T HOLD US BACK

IN PERSON

people

People use the word unique a lot, but what does it mean? From the way we look to the way we work, we all have a different approach to life. At Euclid we include everyone, no matter who they are. Our teachers encourage us to forge our own path. Whether it's learning about the past, living in the present, or preparing for the future. We all have something unique about ourselves, and that uniqueness makes Euclid a better community.

Story by Josh Lefkowitz

//

Being unique to me means being special in your own way. My family has fostered kids for four years. Fostering kids is special to me because it makes my family whole.

- Ella Gomez, 7

Sweet Swag. Wearing sunglasses during Spirit Week, Tony Rondinelli, 8, participates in Twin Day. "What I like about the people at Euclid is that they all are friendly and just jump in to activities." Photo by Ayden Lim

What makes you unique?

"I am funny. I like to joke around, and I will always take the chance to tell a joke. I tell jokes because it makes people laugh and makes their day. I usually tell jokes to my friends."

- Elijah Gomez, 6

"When I was young I had eight teeth pulled out. I got teeth pulled from the front and the back. I was nervous because the procedure was on my canines. What happened was the roots of the teeth weren't dissolving properly."

- Logan Bruton, 7

"I read a lot. An estimate as to how many books I have read in my life is probably 200. My favorite is Harry Potter because it transports you to this magical world where you feel like anything is possible."

- Dani Miller, 8

