

Creating Their Own Future: Class of 2021 College Plans

Dominique Lopez
— Co-Head Editor —

Despite the many challenges that the year 2020 has presented itself with the class of 2021 is still persevering in making sure they have plans for their future. Between the world wide pandemic that began in December of 2020 and the social climate of America many challenges still seem to present themselves making many Americans ponder on what will happen next or what will happen tomorrow?

The college application process for the class of 2021 is very different from what previous classes have faced. Many colleges have chosen to make SAT and ACT score submissions optional and have also chosen to extend the deadline for many applications.

However throughout all of the challenges that this year has presented itself with many seniors of the Alamosa High School class of 2021 have still created a plan for their future by choosing what college they plan to attend for the next several years to pursue their careers.

Whether or not students have chosen to take on the path of playing sports or just focusing on their academic career many 2021 students have accepted/signed to a college well before the deadline.

These students that have already chosen the college they would love to attend are Lora Ortega, Eldin Pascual-Lopez, Davion Chavez, and Lauren Manzanares. Each of these students are taking their next steps in ensuring the best futures from themselves outside of the small town of Alamosa that shaped them for these futures.

Congratulations students! May your journeys lead you to ensuring that you are all becoming whatever your future holds.
