With a class full of talented and creative writers, the official newspaper of Alamosa High School never disappoints. Throughout a normal school year, there are 8 issues that are put out but this year with COVID-19 and our class size there are only a total of 5 issues. It has been a struggle with the lack of events going on within the community and even the high school to easily find content to write about, but with every ones great minds coming together, there is still always great content being produced. After every paper that is produced, the class gets together and does “kudos and critiques” which is where each person finds one thing to compliment but also something to critique. This helps the class with future issues as they learn what they could do better as well as what they can continue to do well. The Alamosan gets a good audience as it is distributed to the whole school to read as well as the community of Alamosa and the San Luis Valley. Being a student run class each student has a specific section they are assigned to and the teacher of the class Mr. Dionisio keeps everyone in check. The sections in the newspaper are sports, commentary, features, news, and even the centerfold. Without any of these sections or people, the newspaper would not be possible. This year has been a difficult one for sure, but the class has managed to get through it putting out some exceptional newspapers.
