2. HANDS ON. Jackson Finch (9) works at home on his woods project. Finch explained, "It feels a lot more different than what a normal class would feel like, and it's a lot more boring at home because you don't get to be taught in person." photo courtesy by jackson finch

3. NEW TRANSITIONS. Camryn Davis (12) sits at her desk while she focuses during one of her classes on goggle meets. Davis said, "The social factor was the hardest part about my transition to online. I didn't realize how much of an impact it would make." photo courtesy by camryn davis

4. STAYING FOCUSED. Alicia Chavez (11) adjusts to her new learning environment. "I really struggled with this year, and it wasn't easy. My best way of handling it was to play with cards I was dealt, and then go with the flow" stated Chavez. photo courtesy by alicia chavez

5. ONLINE LEARNING AT ITS FINEST. Lucia Brendlinger (10) is comfortable and ready for her online classes to begin. "There are some advantages and disadvantages in this transition such as being to sleep in, stay home, and be in your pjs, however, I find myself stuck with disadvantages of this change such as not seeing friends, not being in classes, and missing that one on one teaching," exclaimed Brendlinger. photo courtesy by luci brendlinger

POSITIVE CHANGES ON THE WAY

a new update on the covid-19 vaccine gives everyone hope for the future

As we transition to online school, both students and teachers are eagerly anticipating a vaccine, so we can return to in-person learning. Freshman Sylvia Medicus shared her opinion on vaccination saying, "I think it's important to get it if you want to keep yourself and others healthy, I want to get it as soon as possible. I think it's a necessary step in order to keep people safe from the virus." Sylvia Medicus (9). With new news from the CDC it is predicted a vaccine will be released by the end of 2020 and distributions will start immediately. Now is the time to celebrate this hopeful news.

students adjust to online learning

On Friday, November 13th all classes went online for the rest of the semester. With the increasing numbers of Covid and many teachers quarantined Littleton High School was forced to shut down. Soon after, all LPS schools switched to online learning. The change from seeing teachers in person twice a week, to only seeing teachers and learning through a computer screen was a challenging transition. Vy Phan (10) expressed, "Online for me is personally harder than in person. It is not necessarily the content being taught that is harder, there is just something so draining about not being able to engage normally in the subject being taught and the people in the class." While for other students, online school was not very different from the previous schedule and believe that in many ways this was easier. "The switch to online has been pretty easy since we used to be half online anyways, so I haven't had much trouble with it," thought Natalie Dreiling (10). Now with the sudden switch, students recognized the change and adapted to the new situation during the changing times.

ARE WE THERE YET?

After Break

"I thought by next year, we'd be full in person, I think going back any earlier will cause more harm than good" Maleah Kritenbrink (12)

Next School Year

"I chose in the spring because apparently there's a 95% effective vaccination that comes out in January." Lauren Tesar (11)
