

Hometown Heroes

Thanks to a donation from Discovery Church, all Doherty staff members came home in January to find a yard sign proclaiming that they were heroes. "It is so important to feel seen!" said English teacher Sara Martin.

Time to Rise up!

Fighting Back

Cortney Roberts, mother of Joshua Roberts and Zackary Roberts, received the COVID-19 vaccine in January of 2021. "I am glad to be a part of history and protecting myself, my family, and my future," said Cortney Roberts.

"Like all D11 nurses I struggled to fulfill regular duties while spending most of my work day speaking to students, families and staff members about COVID 19-like symptoms or test results. It was also extremely difficult being the person telling staff or students that they could not attend and would have to quarantine. Additionally, guidelines and requirements changed rapidly... There were many stressful days, especially when I myself had to quarantine multiple times. I can honestly say that there were positive outcomes too. I had some great conversations and deeper connections with both staff and student/student families and for that I am truly grateful."

Doherty Nurse Bobbi Lahey

Family legacy:

2015 Doherty alumna Janine Lahey poses with her mom, Doherty nurse Bobbi Lahey. Janine graduated from Creighton University in December of 2019. She began her career during the pandemic and her first day working in a local hospital was March 9. The first stay at home order came on March 13. She loves her job.

"My mom works as nurse in this difficult time and is always going through challenges at her job. She's always coming home with frightening stories about her day yet she always looks at the positive side of things. I respect her more and more everyday just by the way she deals with situations that go on around her. She is the light that keeps me going everyday."

"The pandemic has not changed my views on helping others at all! I still want to get EMS certified ASAP, and I still want to do training at the school for whatever sport I can."
