

Kicking Up Dust While playing at Bear Creek High School, junior Cheyenne Prieto pitches yet another strike. Throughout the season Prieto pitched 140 strike-outs, and 12 in this game alone. "This season was something I could've never expected, and for our team to do as well as we did for the season was definitely something to be proud of," Prieto said. photo by s. smith

REALITY CHECK

Zachary Barnes (12)
“The fact that we’ve been doing hybrid is kinda funky. Not being in-person is really hard because I don’t think my teachers really know me,” Barnes said.

Sydney Kasperbauer (12)
“Everything has changed. I don’t get to see most of my friends because they’re here on the B days and I’m here on A days. By the end of the day I’m always hungry because we don’t have lunches,” Kasperbauer said.

Logan Tilly (12)
“I miss having a lunch. That was my time to socialize with all of my friends. That and wearing masks, I hate having to wear a mask,” Tilly said.

Who would have thought that Eric Kragel would take your temperature before school.

Or that there would be football games with no fans.

Remember walking on one side of the hall up and only being allowed to walk up the center stair case.

Or when Senior Amy Sessions and the basketball team had to wear masks during games.

Who would’ve thought that Mrs. McFadden-Barr would have to teach labs over Zoom?
