

Getting Vaccinated! At the second round of pfizer vaccine shots offered to community members and local staff, Melissa Bartt winches in pain. "With kids coming back to the classroom full time, our social distancing is pretty much going to be eliminated, I feel a lot safer being vaccinated and I think I'll be a more effective teacher," Bartt said. photo by s. smith

Wyatt Nichols (9)
"I was really looking forward to having a full freshman football season, but because of COVID that didn't really happen so we had a shrunken season," Nichols said.

Justin Segal (10th),
"I kinda like online school because I don't have to wake up super early, I just have to turn on my computer and join the class, but I do miss seeing my friends everyday," Segal said.

Isabel Cloutier (11)
"I feel like it's really hard to connect and feel motivated in my classes. I used to look forward to coming to school and would look forward to seeing people. Now it's just hard to find something good to look forward too," Cloutier said.

Remember having to actually stay in your seminar class instead of being able to hang out with your friends in the hall?

Or that sophomore Regan Snider would have to wrestle for Platte Canyon because there weren't enough people to make a team?

Remember when the band and orchestra practiced over Zoom?

Who would've thought that we'd come back 100%?
