RETROSPECTION

Though every school year is unique in its own ways, this year has proven to be particularly memorable for all the changes and adaptations required. Due to the affects of the COVID-19 virus, we were thrust into the first pandemic in nearly 100 years. So, as much as we wish the pandemic never occurred, we must face the reality of the year we have had to endure; both the positive and the negative aspects. Additionally, we highlight the tremendous spirit demonstrated by our community during this time. As we reflect on this year, we remember our joyful past, our bountiful present, and our promising future.
