

Nearly canceled due to COVID-19 complications, Cheyenne Mountain's Homecoming game let students hoot and holler until their throats were battered raw for school pride. In a year of uncertainty, isolation, and fear, football players adorning thick shoulder pads and cheerleaders dancing rhythmically in shimmering mini skirts were a welcomed diversion from masked peers, COVID testing, and social-distancing.

Photo Credit: Chris Moody