Off Campus Privileges

Eager to utilize their new off-campus privileges, many students leave school during their off-block or lunch. Matthew Van Dyke enjoys having these privileges because "it's fun to get out of school for a little bit and take a breather." Jack McLucas-Kinder often leaves campus to get lunch with Sam Rocco and Elijah Brotherton, but also added that it's not exclusive to lunch: "It can be anything from driving to Denver or Longmont or just hanging out outside of school." Jack sometimes eats lunch with Judah Weir, Ethan Runyon, and Alexis Johnson. Judah shared, "Off campus privileges are great because I can go and get food with my friends and I'm not stuck on campus."

Creepin' Up On College

Planning for the Future. During junior year, students begin to stress over the unknowns of college and the challenges that come with their school search. Sam Rizzo, who has already visited multiple college campuses, commented, "The idea of me going to college next year is simultaneously terrifying and liberating. I look forward to just generally being more free." Even though many students, like Sam, are still looking for colleges, athletes Kate Runyon and Allie Kirkpatrick have already verbally committed to colleges because of their outstanding athletic talent. Kate shared, "I am really excited about the opportunity I have been given to continue my athletic and academic careers at Florida. I feel so fortunate to have found my home and my people. I love the vision and direction the program is headed and I cannot wait to be part of something so special." Allie explained, "After visiting a number of schools, I was thrilled to commit to a program that values academics, really good soccer, and supports my faith."
