

Favorite Game Theme

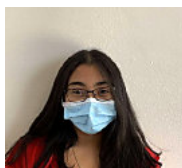

"I liked the neon the most because it popped out in the crowd," Abrianna Trevizo (9) said.

"My favorite one would have to be black out because it was easy to wear and it looked cool," Marley Garcia (9) said.

"I really enjoyed the pink out because it was for cancer awareness which was really sweet," Reina Crowley (10) said.

"My favorite would be pink out since it was more than just a theme," Kaysha Westgard (10) said.

"My favorite theme was blackout because it's my favorite color and it was nice to dress all black," Arlet Cruz (9) said.

"Neon theme because everyone was really into it and especially because it was a hoco game," Emerson Deferme (10) said.

"My favorite game theme was pajama because I was super comfortable," Mikael Somerville (9) said.

"I would say pink out because it was a cool theme to do and everyone got to show their support together," Aalim Cambrelen (9) said.

"I liked the neon because it was fun and I liked it," Colton Arellano (9) said.

"Definitely neon because I loved how bright it was," Alaysia Ornelas (9) said.

Swinging Into 6th

Boys Varsity Golf down in Colorado Springs, competing against Colorado High school ending up in 6th place overall.

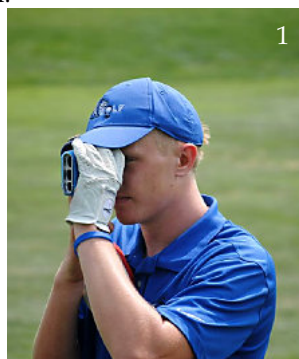

Practice doesn't always make perfect, but it gets you pretty close. Varsity golfer Lukas Beisner (12), explains he went from not even making JV freshman year, to finishing senior year on varsity; ending up 6th place individually in the state, and averaging 75.9 strokes per match.

"Even up to last year I had very little varsity experience, this is my first year lettering in varsity, this is my first year qualifying for regionals and my first year qualifying in state; so this year especially, I've grown," Beisner said.

1. Zoomin' in!: Boys Varsity Golf player Nick Scott (10) using his range finder to scope out the area!

2. Put-put!: Boys Varsity Golf player preparing to put!

3. Going for the green!: Boys Varsity Golf player swinging towards the green.

Give Me a J, Give Me a V

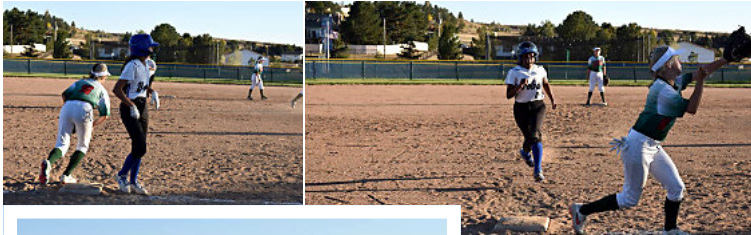

This years JV cheer team is working hard for the competition season. "We're doing ab workouts, we're running miles during practices, and we're starting to work towards getting our dance and our tumbling," sophomore Kalianna Minter said. The team is training day and night in order to have good performances for games and to be able to show amazing school spirit to the games they attend. Although the girls lost a lot of members this year, they wont let that stop them from looking good on the outside and feeling good on the inside.

Customer is allowed to have objects outside of the margin.

TRIM LINE

TRIM LINE

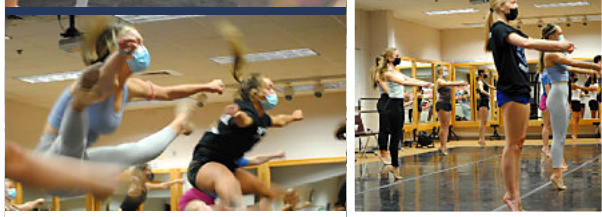

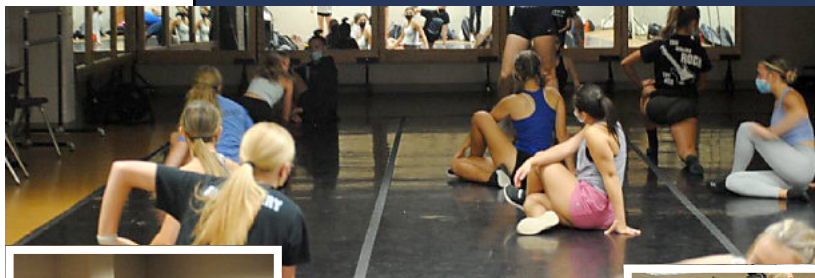

Recover & Rebound

Teamwork begins by building trust, having each other's backs and supporting each other through wins and losses. Grandview's JV softball team, with an ending record of 9-6, knows all about supporting each other.

Their sportsmanship shined through the day of their game against the Smoky Hill Buffs on September 21st. The Wolves' starter catcher, Lynn Fields (10) was injured and the team encouraged her sub, Micha Pittman (9), to show the other team what shes made of.

"Getting hit with a bat in the middle of a swing," Fields said when explaining her injury.

Lynn was out for the season, and although Pittman was not expecting to fill in as catcher, she knows her position and is confident, thanks to her teammates.

Dance Revolution

"Its made me stronger. its made me a better person and a better dancer," Elaina Colson (9) said when describing how her first year on the Grandview Varsity Poms team has impacted her life.

Being a Varsity Pom is a huge responsibility to take on. The strength built during the season all pays off when competition season comes around.

"Being able to go to football games and cheer at them. I'm also looking forward to a normal competition season," head captain Zoe Kanive (12) said when describing her favorite parts of the year.

The Poms girls participate in and enforce useful practice at football, volleyball, and basketball games to prepare for the competition season. Although that is the most important rivalry of the year, it's still important to be there and gain experience from those activities. TWI2 is the team's motto for the year, and it means "The Work Is Worth It". The four seniors on the team came up with the saying and throughout the year it reminds the team to keep working for the top spot.

A Captain's

Reminiscence

Courtney Hall (11)

"I liked the leadership having a chance to like be in control; being able to tell guys what to do, where to go and what not," Boys Soccer Varsity Captain Courtney Hall said.

"[I] love having authority when on the field," Hall said.

Erikas Dvarionas (11)

"I don't know, it kinda makes you feel responsible for, like, the entire team and you get to like lead the team to win," Boys Soccer JV Captain Erikas Dvarionas said.

Jesse Sesma Jr (10)

"It's pretty fun, I like the boys they're pretty nice and we are doing pretty good this season," Boys Soccer C Team Captain Jesse Sesma Jr said.

Set, Spike, Done

Sophomore Volleyball Ending Their Season

"Fun, entertaining, and challenging," Dorie Mittleman (10) said when describing this last volleyball season. For Mittleman, bonding and spending time with the team was the highlight of her year.

Dorie says the best way to describe team is their dedication to be there for everything to gain trust and love.