

"OUI" WELCOME OUR NEW MEMBERS

French NHS celebrates new members with induction

WELCOME BACK

FNHS president, Khady Sow '22, delivers her opening speech during their induction ceremony Oct. 26 in the auditorium. Sow addressed the attendants to celebrate this meeting after the previous year of restrictions. "I was super excited to open the meeting this year and I'm looking forward to our future events," Sow said.

photo by: c. bauer

LET THEM EAT CAKE

Eloise Stuart '24 cuts the cake, concluding the FNHS induction ceremony Oct. 26. Members of FNHS prepared during Access to be ready for induction. "I wanted to join FNHS because it's an educational club, where we are also able to do fun activities," Stuart said.

photo by: c. bauer

PASSING THE TORCH

Sam Record '24 passes the induction candle to Nathan Geuzaine '23 Oct. 26 in the auditorium. As a part of induction, each student had to recite a series of French statements while holding the candle. "I was really nervous at first to speak in front of everyone, but it wasn't as intimidating as I thought it would be," Record said.

photo by: c. bauer

OUI OUI

Joshua Lederman '22 debriefs after the FNHS induction ceremony Oct. 26. As FNHS treasurer, he kept track of funds from events like their club food truck. "It was so cool to see how many people were interested in being involved and learning French," Lederman said.

photo by: c. bauer

HOME OF THE SENIORS

For the first time in 19 months, Mac Garrison '22 and Donovan McMullen '22 led the rest of the senior class in the 'Do It' chant Oct. 28 for the opening assembly. Due to pandemic protocol as well as the flooding of the gym, whole school assemblies ceased to exist from March of 2020 until October of 2021. "It was really cool to see everyone there and joining the chants in the end," McMullen said.

photo by: m. evans

for the first time in 19 months, students gather together as a student body

OUR HOUSE

PACKED TOGETHER

Watching from the sophomore section, Tait Jensen '24, attends his first assembly of high school. Oct. 28. The gym was closed due to flooding in July and this was the first opportunity for the school to meet together. "It was exciting to be with the school at an assembly," Jensen said.

photo by: l. smart

HYPE UP THE CROWD

The Freshman poms team cheers at the first assembly of the school year Oct. 28. It was their Freshman's first opportunity to cheer at this scale. "Cheering at the assembly was super fun hyping up the crowd and yelling the chants," Claire Gillespie '25 said.

photo by: l. smart

SENIOR SUPREMACY

Tyler Branish '22 and Owen Dickenson '22 "Boo" the freshman class during the "DO IT" cheer in the opening assembly Oct. 28. Seniors also booed the sophomore and junior classes before finishing the DO IT cheer all together. "It's a tradition to "boo" to freshmen; it's been done to everyone," Branish said.

photo by: l. smart

MARCHING, HERE WE GO

Zane Ellwood '22, Max Slavin '22 and other seniors participate in the marching chant Oct. 28. During the cheer, students "ride the wave" and "go shopping". "It was really exciting to be all back together after being apart for so long," Ellwood said.

photo by: l. smart

women discuss relationships during w.e. club meeting

BE EMPOWERED

DATING RULES

Seniors Kelsey Buffington, Mary Lehnardt, Nishi Veer, and Jenna Levine listen to Choir Director Julia Dale discuss safe relationship choices during the Women's Empowerment club meeting Oct. 21. This club discussed a variety of topics in hopes of starting meaningful conversations about healthy relationships. "I have liked being a member of this club because it has provided me with a safe space where I know I will be supported," Lehnardt said.

photo by: r. hart

THE WOMEN BEHIND IT ALL

Frankie Stroud '22 and Olivia Gallo '22 embrace after leading the Women's Empowerment and Equality Club meeting Oct. 21. Stroud and Gallo founded the club in 2020 as a way to take action to create a culture free of gender bias. "We wanted to build a community of like-minded feminists who would want to have discussions about feminism and volunteer in the community," Stroud said.

photo by: r. hart

R-O-C-K

During their cheer in the during the gym re-opening assembly, Megan Williams '22 holds up "R" in the ROCK cheer Oct. 28. This was their first chance to perform in front of the student body in the newly opened gym. "It was really cool to finally be back together and to be a senior leading the cheer," Williams said.

photo by: m. evans

NEW BEGINNINGS

Connor Brown '23 performs with marching band during the re-opening assembly Oct. 28. This was the first time marching band performed during an assembly due to the closure of the gym. "It was fun because I got to play in front of a bunch of people," Brown said.

photo by: l. smart

STATE CHAMPS

2021 State Champions Poms perform at the opening assembly Oct. 28. Due to the gym closure, this was the first opportunity poms had to share the win with the school. "This performance was very special for me because we always face the senior section at assemblies, so this year, it was really cool to be performing to my own class," Captain Macy Fallin '22 said.

photo by: m. evans