THE POMS TEAM SHOWS THE TEACHERS HOW TO DANCE

This was the first year at Littleton High School that had 'Dancing With The Teachers'. The Poms team cheered on and danced with many of the teachers, which took place at Littleton's theater. Many teachers such as Mr. Koepke, Mr. Wentz, Mr. Kennicutt, Ms. Schwabauer, Mrs. Braband, Ms. Ockner, and many others participated in the Pom's fundraiser. Mrs. Turkus emphasized, "I loved being the ultimate champion and beating out Mr. Koepke personally. I loved participating in the dances and I definitely did not feel like I was the best one but it was an awesome experience working with students outside of the classroom." The Poms dancers choreographed special dances with specific teachers to show the audience their moves. It was a successful event and Poms hopes to continue this into the future. No need to look anywhere else other than Littleton's theater, full of teachers and students dancing their hearts out.

DECA MEMBERS COMPETE IN DISTRICTS

DECA worked hard and prepared themselves for districts this year. As Senior Nicholas Hopper quietly prepped in holding and Catherine Dutmer, Abigail McPherson and Olga Sorbala celebrated their district wins, students enjoyed working on real world business endeavors. Many DECA students pushed hard to qualified for DECA state. State qualifier, Trevor Metz (12) stated, "They put us in a literal barn when it was 16 degrees outside but we still destroyed the competition!" photos by catherine dutmer

GIRL UP CLUB MAKES BLANKETS FOR A DENVER NON-PROFIT

Girl Up club held their second meeting of the year and worked on blankets to give to Housed Working and Healthy, a non-profit in Denver. They created beautiful blankets which showcased their creativity. A member of Girl Up club, Bella Houck (11) states, "My favorite part of girl up club is being able to have a safe space to talk about women's health and do charity!"

I loved choreographing and dancing with my favorite teachers," exclaimed Geddes, photo by mae watts 2. it's tricky. Ms. Ockner and Andrea Rojas Romero (11) dance and twist their way to the top. "Creating many dances to perform for an audience was a super fun way to engage all the teachers in," said Romero. photo by henry wedgeworth 3. party in the lion den Mr. Koepke and his daughter Isabella Koepke (9) partner up to dance their way to victory. Koepke explained, "It was an unforgettable experience. Hopefully, I can keep the tradition going next year and get first!" photo by mae watts 4. sweet moves. Mrs. Braband, Nora Tholen (9), and Aleysha Gonzalez Ruiz (12) make up a sweet dance to impress the audience. "I loved coreographing the dance! It gave me a chance to be creative and I really enjoyed performing," stated Tholen. photo by mae watts 5. cruising through the spotlight. Mr. Kennicut teams up with his two favorite poms, Karissa Branine (11) and Kayt Cornelison (9), to rock the dance floor for victory. "I really loved the show! It was funny performing with the teachers and it helped see a funnier side to them outside of school," mentioned Cornelison. photo by mae watts 6. mikey's got moves Mr. Wentz worked the stage and impressed the crowd with his unforgettable moves. "I'll never forget how competitive dance can be, that seeing the poms and teachers come up with routines that they can do was very difficult," Mr. Wentz stated. photo by mae watts
