

young love | Valentine's Day had a variety of exciting activities in store. Val-O-Grams were delivered to students and special someones. Singing telegrams were shared as well. Some brave students even confessed to their crushes or asked them to the dance.

elite entryways | Sources of Strength hosted a door decorating contest for A Block classes. Daelin Ruff and her friends did math coloring sheets and wrote inspiring sticky-notes for their door. Overall, Daelin greatly enjoyed the holiday. "I got a lot of Valentines from my friends and was able to hang out with them," she explained.

Customer is allowed to have objects outside of the margin.

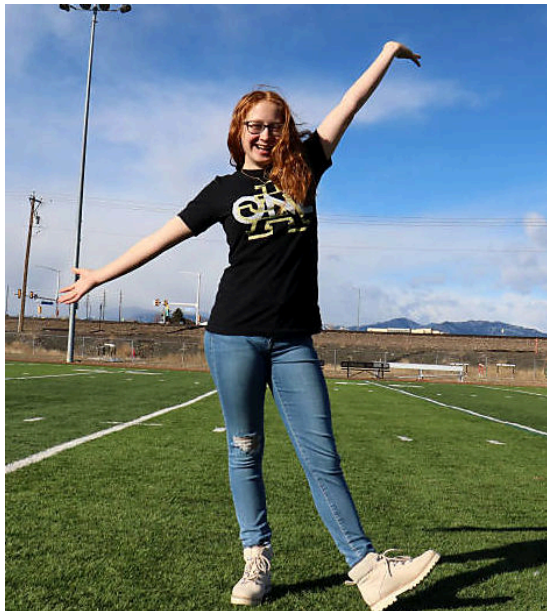

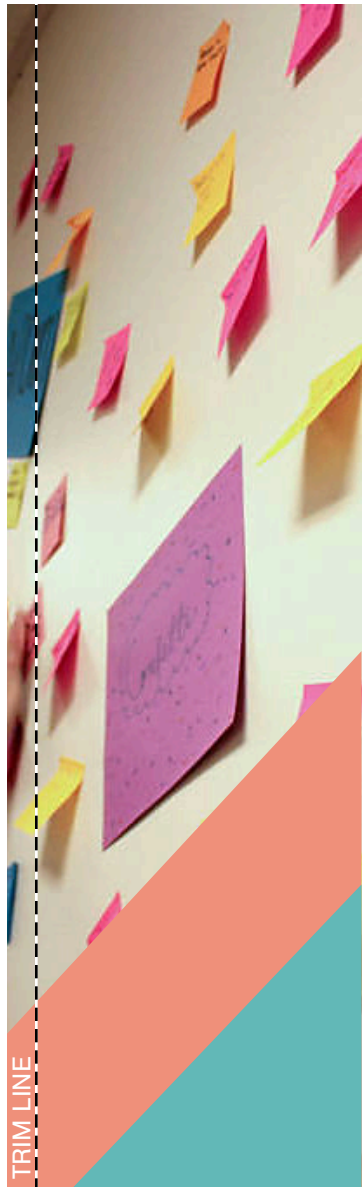

TRIM LINE

buzz boyz

just a trim | An 8th grade friend group decided to test their friendship dedication and got buzz cuts, most of them bleaching their hair afterward. This group included Jake Ahrens, Seth Lane, Carson Hausmann, Zach Carter, Aidan Wong, and Hudson Grip. "You know, you only live once, and hair grows back so you might as well go for it," Zach commented. The boys seem to have no regrets, to the surprise of many.

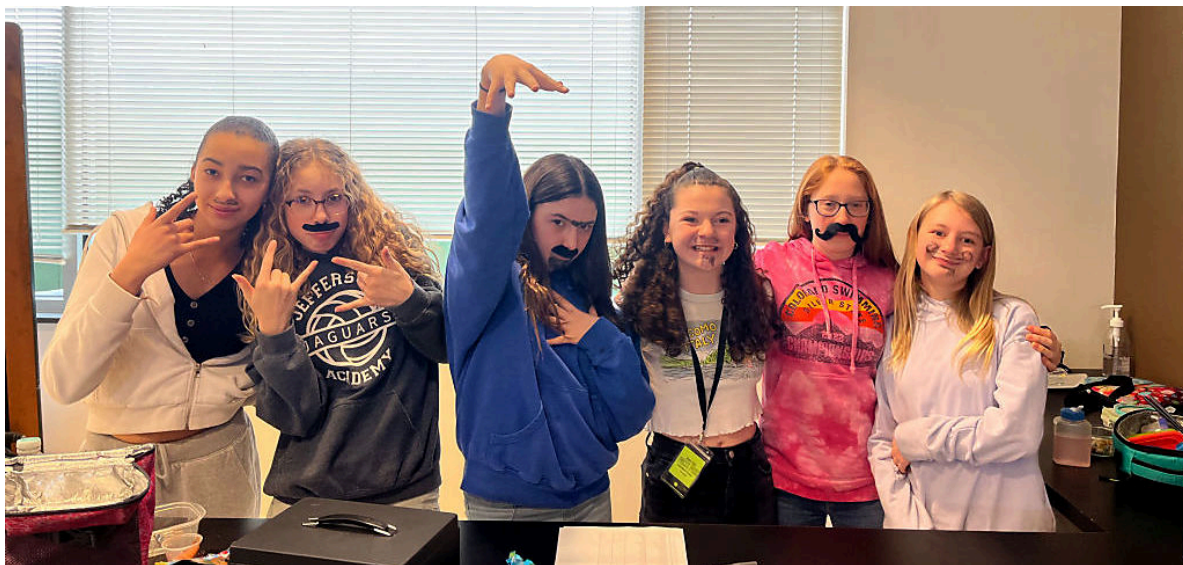

56
quarter three

party planners

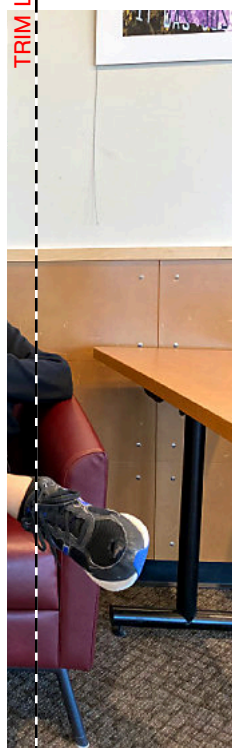

super socials | Community Club is responsible for a number of things ranging from planning dances to scheduling socials. They take charge when the activities include school bonding and other similar things. The club also encourages the student body to grow closer. "It brings people together to make our school and community a better place," Kiera Daly shared. Chloe Mooney expressed, "I love helping out the community. It has a special place in my heart." Audrey Saenz, Georgia Miller, Isabelle Daniels, and Emma Gorski all participate in Community Club.

Customer is allowed to have objects outside of the margin.

TRIM LINE

TRIM LINE

one smart cookie

best and brightest | Brain Bowl is all about trivia, learning, and knowledge. "I get to be with my friends and it's fun to see if I know lots of things or not," mentioned Nathan Harding. "I feel more confident in my trivia. I know some trivia even though I'm still working on it," Nathan declared. Although intelligence is not typically seen as the base of good competition, harnessing bravery and smarts is what makes up the skills of the these contestants. The team won first place at regionals and also competed at the state championships.