

The Alamosa football team worked on their team dynamic all summer in hopes to gain trust between one another before their season started. The team made it a tradition to get together and do some sort of team bonding activity every Friday. These consisted of floating the river, going to the sand dunes, playing beach volleyball at the park, and so much more. Everyone on the team was encouraged to attend each week, and almost everyone showed up. They had eight seniors, eight juniors, eleven sophomores, and eighteen freshman try out for the team. Seniors Cody Lopez, Abram Bowden, Kasey Jones, and Kade Jones were voted the team captains and representatives for Alamosa football this year. Cody Lopez says, "Our team is extremely close, we are like one big family. I think all of us would have each other's backs if we ever needed it. Since we are so close I feel it makes us a better team on and off of the field." Every week, the parents hosted team chow, and every week they had different positions come up with some sort of entertainment for the team to enjoy. This team was able to work through any challenge that they faced and they always show up to play their very best.
