

"Senior girl jean day is all about us girls being super creative, and all coming together. The jean days gives us gals a sense of unity, and it's so fun to see everyone's design on their jeans."
 - Lily Dewell ('23)

PEPFEST

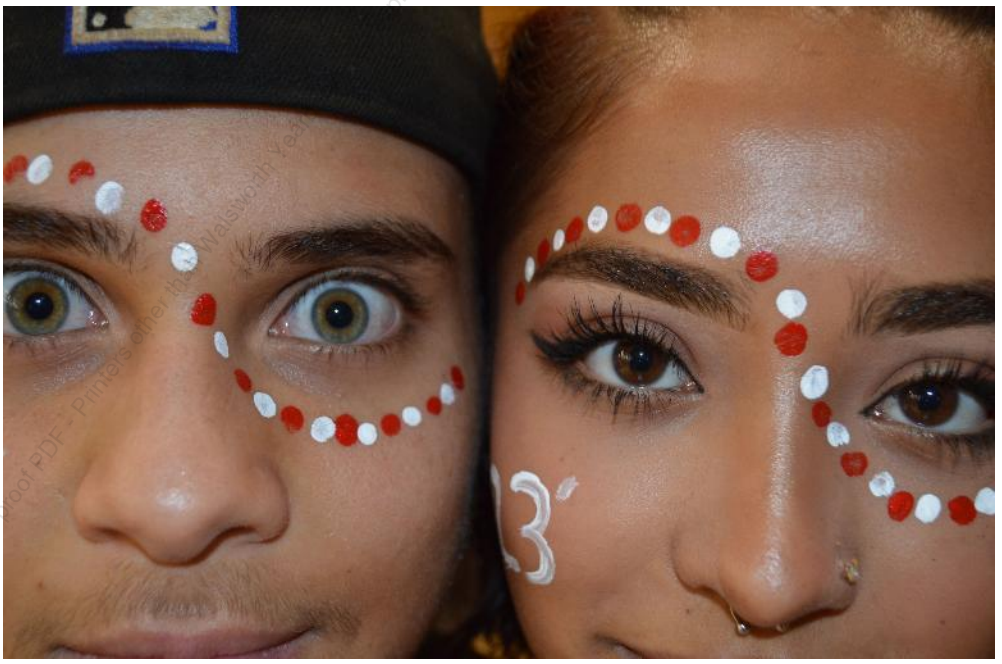

HELLFIRE CLUB. Lily Dewell and Trees Don't Move band member Benjamin Suttor celebrate their senior year with style. Ben wore a Hellfire Club t-shirt referencing the Dungeons & Dragons game in Stranger Things. Photo credit: Fatima Velasco

DANCE PEP. Kaylie Perse stays in formation during the Devil Dancers PepFest performance. "I love that feeling when we are about to perform and the adrenaline really kicks in and I feel like I'm so powerful," said Kaylie ('25).

CROWD SURF. Seniors mosh and crowd surf during Mr. Doan's performance to rid the school of the Demogorgon. Photo credit: Chloe Greener

ALL EYES ON YOU. Seniors Emiliano Manteca and Yoselin Villalobos show off their fresh face paint during PepFest. Photo Credit: Fatima Velasco

WELCOME CLASS OF 2026!

WALKING THE RED CARPET. Freshman Jordan Cox walks the red carpet during Freshmen Orientation. Photo credit: Isabella Almanza

FRESHMAN'S FIRST DAY. Link Crew welcomes the new class of 2026 with a red carpet and persistent cheers. Luis Montes ('26) is greeted by the Link Crew leaders and the camera crew. Luis said, "It was a very fun day, everyone was super welcoming and made me and my friends feel like we fit in." By the end of the day the freshman has been fully introduced to their new school. Photo credit: Chloe Greener

READY. SET. LET'S GO.

Senior jeans, PepFest & Freshmen Orientation start 2022-2023 off with a bang

SENIOR GIRLS' JEAN DAY. The 2023 senior girls line up during their annual jeans day on the first day of school.

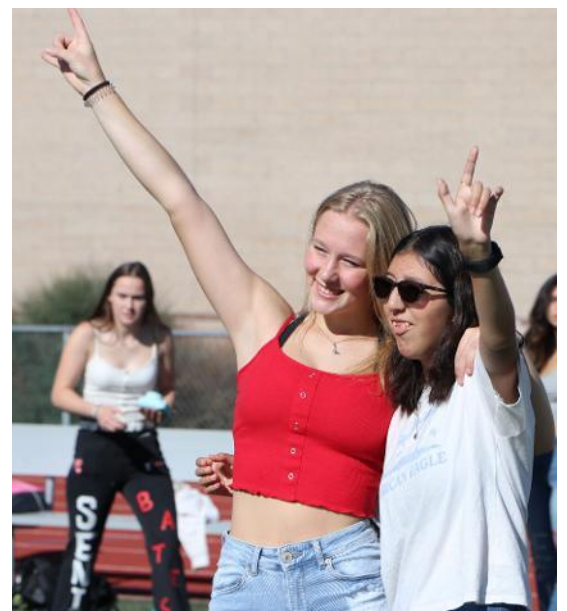

ROCK STARS. Seniors Mackenzie Sprincze and Angela Peña pose for photos on the first day of their senior year. With plans to study film in college, Angela reflected that "graduating means that I've achieved something in high school and will be achieving more in college."

THE BEGINNING OF THE YEAR always brings promises of fresh starts, old and new friends, and for some, either a first or last year in high school. EVHS has lots of traditions during the start of school in the fall. First, Link Crew welcomes incoming freshmen to campus for orientation. This year the theme was Movies, complete with a red carpet. Freshmen entered through a tunnel of upperclassmen welcoming them to their new home for the next four years.

On the first day of school senior girls gathered at Hot Stuff Stadium to show their decorated senior jeans.

They were probably late to first period, but the excitement and sense of community was a special way to begin their senior year and the jeans are a special souvenir.

At PepFest, students gathered in the gym to practice school chants and get pumped up for the new year. Seniors had special "Senior Things" shirts inspired by the popular Netflix show Stranger Things. The fest culminated in a surprise performance by Mr. Doan singing "One" by Metallica with Trees Don't Move - a popular local band comprised of students.

READY & ROWDY

Devil Duels

Every school year at Eagle Valley High School before homecoming night students and staff get ready for Devil Duels. Seniors and Sophomores vs Juniors and Freshman. Let's see who wins. Different committees make the school look like a crazy wonderland. The assembly that people can't wait for fills the whole gym with screaming and cheering. Games being played, fashion shows going on, every grade with their very own custom t-shirt, teachers joining in and students filled with joy. At the end of Devil Duels everyone slowly goes to the middle and starts chanting, "Ooh, aah, oh yeah you wish you were a devil!"

Let Me See You Dance

Greased Lightnin'- John Travolta

The Real Slim Shady- Eminem

It's Tricky- Run-DMC

We Will Rock You- Queen

SHINE BRIGHT. The Seniors are shining their flashlights for the Senior song. During Devil Duels, Eagle Valley Seniors won against the juniors for the class songs. Photo credits: Joy Hamilton

GET LOW. Everyone in the gym starts chanting to the iconic "Ooh, aah, oh yeah you wish you were a Devil!" chant. EVHS always ends off the assembly with this chant that makes everyone go wild. Photo credit: Joy Hamilton

GROOVY. Mr. Wheeler poses to show everyone his groovy outfit. The Senior Devil Duel committee chose an outfit for Mr. Wheeler to model and represent the 70s decade. Photo credit: Jacey Meryhew.

WHO'S THE BEST?

Class Competitions

"Devil Duels knows how to fill me up with energy. I'm always looking forward to losing my voice from all the screaming. " - Fatima Velasco('23)

DECADES

- FRESHMEN (1950's)
- SOPHOMORES (2000's)
- JUNIORS (1980's)
- SENIORS (1970's)

RUNNING TO THE WIN. At Devil Duels Patrick Reno ('23) is running around the gym showing off the Senior flag. Their hard work took a turn, and the Juniors won against Seniors. Photo credits: Isaac Santoyo

WE CAN DO IT. The competition starts again, new game tug a war Veda Peck Davis ('23) uses her strength to win. The tension between the two teams and Juniors take a win. "Even though we lost we still lit on my mama", said Veda. Photo credits: Isaac Santoyo

165
55
FINAL SCORE

RIDING IN STYLE. During the Senior vs Junior game Quinn Conklin ('23) uses a good technique to ride the table. The seniors won against Juniors with the new and weird game. Photo credits: Ms.Hewett

Y2K. The Sophomore class cheer for their teammates, Christian Petersen ('25) joins along with his peers. Seniors and Sophmores join together to try and defeat the Juniors and freshmen. Photo credits: Jacey Meryhew

HERE WE COME

TWINNING IS WINNING. Seniors Reagan McAdams and Noah Rudin walk in the parade to get people's votes for Homecoming Royalty. Holding posters and wearing matching cowboy hats, they make their way down to the bonfire.

HIP. David Hernandez, Valerie Ramagnoli, Jahaira Reyes, Natalie Sanchez, Briceida Mendoza, and Finnegan Bradbury represented the senior float by dressing up 70s style. While dancing and having fun, our seniors show off their hard work and give out awesome attitudes. "My favorite part of homecoming was seeing the friendly competition between grades and seeing students' creativity being expressed," says Jahaira Reyes.

HOMECOMING

Eagle Valley High School celebrates Homecoming Week like never before. Many memories were made during the parade and all the sporting events. Students got all dressed up and danced the night away. "My favorite part about homecoming week was dressing up and having fun with my friends," said Heidi Reyes ('23).

LIT. The big fire had everyone astonished and blown away. Our biggest one yet! Gathered by the fire, friends and family enjoyed the food trucks, and had an amazing time. "I enjoyed testing out my camera skills and spending time with friends," said Isaac Santoyo ('23). Photo credit: Isabella Almanza

SAY CHEESE. Soccer player Josh Escobar ('23) participates in the parade and attends the bonfire this year. "My favorite part about the parade was being with the community all together and embracing the good we have done," says Josh. Photo credit: Ella Hanley

QUEEN. At this year's Homecoming football game, senior Reagan McAdams was announced queen for class royalty. "I was honestly really surprised, but it was such an amazing feeling and I was so honored that people voted for me," says Reagan. Photo credit: Ella Hanley

GO DEVILS. At the tailgate, seniors Heidi Reyes and Jaquelyn Castellon enjoy delicious hot dogs made by Mr. Moyer and his catering class.

LOUD. Trees Don't Move had people on their feet and singing along near the fire. "My favorite part about being on stage with Trees Don't Move is all of us joking around and having fun together on stage. Since we're all really good friends we're always just on stage having a good time and playing music together," says Cooper Filmore ('24). Photo credits: Ella Hanley

THE PARTY'S OVER HERE!

Eagle Valley students know how to make a night worth remembering