

THE LONG WALK. During a 28 mile hike with her family in the Wind River Mountains of Wyoming, Bailey Noall and her mom take a moment to capture the beauty around them. "It was very pretty, and few people were there, but that was because of the insane amount of mosquitoes," Noall said. They protected themselves with mosquito nets and heavy duty bug spray. "The best part of our backpacking trip was probably the moment when we reached a beautiful lake and, to be honest, when we finally reached the car. After camping for two cold nights and hiking A LOT of miles it felt amazing to sit in our car and take off our shoes and, even better, to take a shower and crawl in a warm bed that night."

ENJOY A MILE HIGH

SUMMER

