

TAKE IT FROM Fall

You're on your back porch August 14th. It's still warm and you haven't checked Schoology in months. Then the next day you're stumbling into your first period class. Or is it? The school is pretty hard to navigate, and it turns out you're supposed to be in the 160s not the 130s.

Rain poured. Powderpuff was canceled and rescheduled. Again. The PSAT crashed leaving dozens of freshmen and sophomores stranded at McDonalds without a ride home. You still wince and remember when the ref signaled an incomplete pass to the Cougar's DB at Rock Canyon. But they still made it to playoffs, and you got a well deserved break from standardized testing. The Legends overtook Magic in October instead of September.

You're starting to find your footing like soccer and cross country did at state. You're learning your spot like the stars in Legally Blonde. You played your first game, went to your first club meeting, and aced your first exam. Even though you may have been off to a rocky start...

YOU ARE # BUILT

FOR THIS

Open Arms and Open HeARTs Cross country kicked off the excitement for their season by inviting NAHS members to paint encouraging messages and cute drawings on the windows of their cars. One of these artists that participated in creating art for a good cause was Jolie Nguyen. As a member of the club she finds the sense of community comforting. Finding people with similar interests as her and bringing them together to paint was very exciting for her. "Seeing the other member's faces just being happy while doing art makes my day," Nguyen said. From clubs like National Art Honors Society, to the Varsity football team, fall was a time for students to rediscover the parts and people at school that make them the happiest. Photo by: B. Padalecki

J. Christensen

S. Rich

M. Philson