introduction

"long story short"

We wish we could tell you everything. Tell you where we came from. Tell you how we grew. Tell you who we are now. We can tell you about our clubs, our activities, our sports, our academics, and our community. But the details we can't explain are what make this year special to us. We can describe what we went through as peers, friends, and family. We can try to explain why the 8th grade boys decided to experiment with their hair. What the new and improved meaning of slay is. How competitive the review days in 7th grade history can become. Who Ian Garza is, other than the kid who ripped his pants at the dance. We will attempt to explain ourselves and all that we have accomplished. Here's the shortened version because you will never know the whole story. To make a long story short...
