Banding Together

Unity in the Notes

Band was one of the most hardworking groups within our school. Due to having long practices they have gotten closer within this season. Kyle White ('23) explained how they "are in the hot sun for about 8 hours with little shade," and they all understand the necessary dedication it takes to achieve their goals. Band has a really large team and sometimes connections are hard to make when there are so many people involved. John Disch ('23) said that although the group is so large "it is fairly easy to make connections with everyone on the team due to how much time we spend together." Grace Mosley ('23) loves being a part of a large ensemble because "it feels like we all became family." Mosely was a senior and she described that it is really amazing "being able to watch members that are younger improve as musicians over the years." Mosely also values the amount of time they spent together, and "she wouldn't trade it for the world."

“ I enjoy color guard because it's super fun to toss around the flags and dancing as well as getting to perform for the whole band.

Isaiah Fite ('23)

DRUM MAJOR

“Within my position I enjoy the opportunity to make connections with the entire band. I want to be an excellent conductor for my band and be a good example to everyone. This year my role in band is completely different than past years and it has been a great experience!”

Band Camp

Before the season begins, band had a home band camp. For 2022, Ronald Burke ('23) explained how they took “all the stuff they learned all summer and put it into the first part of their show.” Burke also said how band camp was where they “learn drill and put all the music with movements and everything that goes into the performance!”

Unity

“My favorite part of the season has been spending time with the people in band which created good trust between us all!”
