

Editor's Statement KRAM 1/12/24

This is a special edition episode. The first semester final in our classes is a news segment. Every student tells the story they have wanted personally to tell but we have never gotten around to doing as a program. At the beginning of 2nd semester, the student leadership from all the classes choose their favorites from the submissions and we make an entire episode made up of finals. We also chose who would anchor the episode and filmed the anchors after school. We then edited it all together and it is the first episode we air 2nd semester. It ends up being a diverse episode with a lot of cool storytelling as it contains experienced student journalists as well as 1st year student journalists. For example, the story about comparing Brazil schools to US schools was done by a first year student that is an exchange student.
