

3. you have the right to remain enthused

Justin Bye (11), Cooper David (11), and Piper Hrouda (11) pose with European police. "When we got to Spain we saw some armed officers and we asked for a picture," Hrouda said, "They were really sweet and laughing and had to contain themselves to look serious." photo courtesy of brenda de la torre

3

4. core memory

LHS students gather in front of La Sagrada Familia in Barcelona for a group photo while talking over the memories they've shared. "I was in Avignon, right when we got off at the train station, and there was like this homeless guy that was like wrapping and everything, and he stole a girl's water bottle and I thought that was really memorable because it was really funny," Luke Mehew (10) recounted. photo courtesy of brenda de la torre

the overall story

Lhs students celebrate their seniority and reveal the inspiration behind the design of their senior overalls

"Patrick Star was a design choice for my strong metal approach to life. It's great to be a senior, I'm very excited for the future."
Evan Hallauer (12)

"I had nothing to do with my overalls because of my girlfriend. She wanted to show how unorganized and chaotic I am and it shows."
Cody Jacobs (12)

"There was no inspiration behind the design, I just used the materials I had. Being a senior is weird because I don't feel older or mature."
Madeline Dean (12)

"oh hey, let's be sparkly"

quinn ellis (12) describes his creative process

As the dark settles in, Quinn Ellis (12) slaves away on his senior overalls. "I'm bedazzling my senior overalls with rhinestones," Ellis said. When asked what his inspiration was Ellis replied, "I was like 'Oh, hey, let's be sparkly.'"