outstanding offense

Senior Mac Terry protects the ball against the Highlands Ranch defense, Jan. 12. The sold out away game was the fifth year in a row that the Jaguars defeated the Falcons in a league game (67-64). "Ranch definitely pushed us to run up and down the court so we just gotta work on playing at our own pace and getting better every single day. The hardest part was that they're a full-court press team," Terry said. photo by: s. thompson

nothing but net

Leanne Mackzum '25 runs toward the goal with the ball in hand during a unified basketball game against ThunderRidge Jan. 9 in the auxiliary gym. During Unified games, each player got two opportunities to make a shot when they possessed the ball, giving it to a member of the opposing team once they turned it up. "I loved that so many people came to support and got into it. I always have such a good time when I go to the games," Avery Mell '25 said. photo by: a. witmer

making buckets

Anya Strobel '24 shoots the ball in the auxiliary gym on Jan. 9 during a unified basketball game against ThunderRidge. The scores of the games were not kept, so all who participated walked away a winner. "I absolutely love when our school gets together to cheer the Unified team on. It makes my heart melt. My most favorite part is when one of them scores and the crowd goes wild," Karlie Chase '25 said. photo by: a. witmer

ready, set, shoot

Carmen Rogers '27 prepares to shoot a basket during the unified basketball game in the gym Jan. 9. Every year, the unified students got to choose what teaching department they want to go against, and this year they chose the science department. "The message said at the beginning was very meaningful. My favorite part of the game was when Mark threw a three-pointer and everyone cheered him on," Kyle Walsh '25 said. photo by: a. witmer

it's all uphill from here

suns out, boards out

Colton Renberg '25 gets low to the ground in order to maintain balance at Copper Mountain Jan. 29. Renberg went to the park to do jumps and skid on top of the rails. "I love snowboarding. I've been doing it forever. It really connects me with my buddies and nature," Renberg said. photo by: p. graham

pow party

Colton Renberg '25 rides with his friends at Copper Mountain Jan. 29. Renberg and his friends rode the ski lift up to the back bowls to a black diamond run. "I get the Ikon pass because it's cheaper than the Epic, and it also has more challenging mountains and terrain for our group," Bryce Greczek '25 said. photo by: p. graham

rail riding

As his skis scrape the metal pipe, Zack Lewis '25 rides on a rail at Copper Mountain Jan. 29. Lewis went to the Woodward park at Copper Mountain to better his skiing abilities. "I enjoy riding at the park before any of my big runs before my day, it helps me become awake for the rest of the day after the long car ride up to the mountains," Lewis said. photo by: p. graham

face full of snow

Bryce Greczek '25 gets back up from falling after clipping an edge at Copper Mountain Jan. 29. Greczek made the hour and a half long drive to Copper to snowboard. "Even though in snowboarding you fall a lot, I always get right back up and learn from my mistakes. This makes me better every time I go up to the mountains," Greczek said. photo by: p. graham
