

MAKING THE MASTERPIECE

Artistic inventions that were on display this year

FROM THE MOUNTAIN TO THE MOLD

Using the spinning wheel during her ceramics class is junior Alicia Almanza. She's found a way to combine two of her greatest passions.

"Outside of school, I rock climb a lot, so sometimes I incorporate elements to reflect that passion within my artwork," said Almanza.

photo by greta powell

THE HEART OF THE ART

So many amazing and incredible art pieces were created by students this year

WHY IT SPEAKS TO ME

Each art class offers a unique perspective to its students

"[Sculpture] I really like that your able to portray your feelings in a different way, and their visuals."

BRYNLEE WERNER (11)

"[Photography] I like the hands on stuff and I also like being able to create something different and unique."

KELLY O'DELL (10)

"[AP art studio] "Art speaks to me on a lot of different levels, most importantly as a creative outlet. Art is a way to express myself and tell stories, and a way for me to enjoy other people's stories and skills."

JACQUELINE MOON (10)

"[Drawing/painting] I created my art by ripping letters and images from several different magazines after deciding on the words and overall vibe I wanted for the piece."

SAGE FREDRICK(10)

"[Jewelry] I love making things, especially when i have the materials I need. I can make an idea come to life and if it comes out how I want, I can be very proud of it."

JORDAN MCMAHON (10)

"I was inspired by a picture of Dale from Detroit Urban Survival Training next to Lil' Yachty which I thought was a interesting meet-up."

COLTON FAIRBAIRN (12)

One side is Republican and the other is Democratic. The baby in the center represents the new generation and how they will vote."

ZOEY DUCHENE (12)

INSPIRATION BEHIND THE CREATION

Legacy's artists talk about the creativity behind their award-winning pieces

"I paint what I want to see. I make art that people can interpret however they want."

ANDREW SHONTZ (12)

"We were learning about sgraffito techniques in class and I had extra time [to make the piece]. I feel like a lot of my artwork is simple. I like clean lines."

SONAM ZEKI (12)

