

What's on Your BUCKET List?

When people are asked, "What's on your bucket list?" some say they want to travel the world. However, Greta Jones said, "Publish one of my poems. I write a lot and most people say that they are really good, I feel like most of the poetry in English class is like butterflies and rainbows. I feel like a lot of the poetry we see now is not as emotional as is used to be." Something on a bucket list could mean going somewhere to spend quality time with family members, "I want to go to Alaska on a fishing trip with my dad," Jacob Hard shared. James Goodin said, "I want to finish high school and go to college one day."

When you think about things you can't live without, you might think about essentials like water, food, and shelter, but for some people, something they can't live without could mean something totally different. Georgia Miller said she can't live without her friends "because they get me through the day of school." Georgia feels this way about friends like Audrey Saenz, Riley Lewis, Kinsley Palmer, Sora Greenzweig, and Emily Neptune. Some people, like Ellie Huang, can not live without their sport. For Ellie it is "volleyball, because I really like to play, and I connect with it." When you think about what you can't live without you might think of a family member, Olivia Ward said she can't live without her mom "because she has been there forever."
