

dedicated dads
Four parents who helped set up the bonfire see the fruits of their labors. The bonfire would not be possible without the wonderful parents who make up maroon pride and help facilitate every year.

pose proud
Seniors Eva Lopez and Olivia Tuiotti-Mariner pose for a flick at the fire. Both of these young women have a Student leadership role, and were part of the many people who make the bonfire possible.

remember it all
The Bonfire is a memorable experience for all, and plenty of cameras can always be found there. TJ Cody brought film gear to document the event for the AHS news. Without fail every year, students take pictures with friends, teammates, and significant others.

first year fire
Freshmen James Hernandez and Tecoa Archuleta experience their first homecoming bonfire. The anticipation of homecoming week is heightened even more than normal for freshmen, as it marks one of the first iconic high school experiences

homecoming bonfire

hoco rivalries car smash

AHS Student Council added a new element to the annual homecoming bonfire by decorating a car with rival schools, and allowing students to pay to smash the vehicle.

This car smash was a huge hit among all students. Many took their shot at the car, giving it quite a beating. StuCo may have prompted the emergence of a new tradition for AHS.

the annual thing...

for the friends
AHS Bonfire brings together the diverse body of students for an all-inclusive activity, and brings widespread excitement to the students. The many groups of students at AHS all show up for this highly anticipated event. It is a signature high school event, loved by many.