

capture the ART

UNIQUE DISPLAY FOR A UNIQUE TALENT

Written by Miah Smith

Street art is a hit in Evergreen bathrooms. Andrew Schiebler (AJ) (8) was asked by Ms. Wilson to start a project in the Evergreen bathrooms, showing off his street art skills. Schiebler wanted a purpose to his artwork. "I just want the students to think it looks cool," Schiebler said. Just as Schiebler intended, many people saw his artwork. "I think the graffiti is really cool and whoever did it put a lot of time and work into it and it is very well executed," Kiera McConnell (8) said. He had two helpers, Jacob Davison (8) and Tavin Reinicke (8). "It gives me something to leave behind at this school and look back on," Reinicke said. The project and artists taught Ms. Wilson many things. "Just having AJ doing this project has taught many things like the different spray can pressures," Ms. Wilson said.

1. BATHROOM RENOVATION The Evergreen bathrooms got a graffiti makeover on Feb. 20. Andrew Schiebler contributed to the artwork. "I just sketched a bunch of random things," Schiebler said. Photo by Miah Smith. 2. GRAFFITI FUN Many students have seen the graffiti in the Evergreen bathrooms on Feb. 20. "It's cool, I think it adds color to the school bathroom," Spencer Wilde (8) said. Photo by Catherine Bartels. 3. ACQUAINTED OTHERS The message sent through the graffiti in the Evergreen bathrooms has impacted students on Feb. 20. At first when I walked in I was confused but I think it's cool and they did a really good job on it," Kiera McConnell (8) said. Photo by Catherine Bartels. 4. ACROSS THE COUNTRY Graffiti is new to the Evergreen bathrooms on Feb. 20. Andrew Schiebler led the project, used to live in D.C. and there was a guy. He was a senior in high school and he taught me graffiti," Schiebler said. Photo by Miah Smith. 5. LEAVING A LEGACY Tavin Reinicke (8) helped work on the graffiti project in the Evergreen bathrooms on Feb. 28. "Just to be able to show something in the school and to know that I worked on it," Reinicke said. Photo by Miah Smith.

stay in FOCUS

Written by Catherine Bartels

DIFFERENT STRATEGIES USED TO WORK

Staying focused doesn't mean being called the smartest kid in the grade, but it does include being intent with your attention and directing your focus towards the event taking place. Zoning out or losing concentration are examples of losing focus.

There are countless strategies to help stay in focus. "For me, I scribble something down while I get distracted, and then I continue focusing," Charlette Connor (7) said.

Many people have different takes on ways to stay concentrated. "I interest myself into whatever we're doing. I involve myself. If you're not interested in what you're doing, you're not going to do it," Kobe Calame

Everyone can have different opinions about whether they want to stay focused or not. "Staying focused is really hard for me, but helps me stay ahead and not fall behind and also helps me learn better without forgetting everything," Connor said. Photo by Catherine Bartels.

the big REVEAL

Written by Izze Younkerman

A BABY SHOWER SURPRISE

The Student Council is back at it with throwing parties again. Mrs. Nash-Rodriguez announced her pregnancy, towards the end of September. Ever since then they have been waiting to know the baby's name. They finally learned her baby is named Soleil Nash-Rodriguez during the surprise baby show StuCo hosted for Ms. Nash-Rodriguez, Feb. 27. "I'm super excited, she was on the verge of tears. I had so much fun, I even bought balloons," Zaeleigh Barajas (8) said. They planned a variety of activities, "We had some cupcakes, then she opened her presents and we played games," Stella Clampitt (8) said. Photo by Izze Younkerman.

make the DANCE

Written by Arna Randall

VALENTINES DAY DANCE MADE BY STUDENT COUNCIL

All the school dances are planned by Student Council. When the Valentine's Dance came up, they were making decorations and games. "We monitor what the kids are doing, we do activities with them, and sell tickets and snacks," Zaeleigh Barajas (8) said. They were looking at the dance and making sure no trouble happens.

"We plan about a month ahead," Barajas said. During homeroom, they plan and prep for the dance. The Student Council has planned many dances and will plan many more to come. Photo by Emily Owen.