

LET IT ALL GO. During the Valentine Formal on Feb. 15, Liliana Kiefer (7) and her friends sing the song "Let it Go." Through the whole song they were screaming the lyrics as the entire audience joined them. "We chose the song because it's a really good song, and I enjoyed being there with friends," Kiefer said.

FEET IT! During lunch Anistin Martin (8) and her friends get a photo with Mr. Murray and Ms. Stephanie. Mr. Murray came out to the tables by the office everyday to start a conversation with them. "We normally eat lunch at the office tables and he comes to tell us how much time we have, and we always talk to him because he's funny," Martin said.

PEOPLE

CONTENTS

- 88-89 Staff
- 90-97 Sixth Grade
- 98-105 Seventh Grade
- 106-113 Eighth Grade
- 114-130 Dedications

IT'S YOUR PEOPLE

that automatically make the day better every time you see them, and when they aren't there at school it makes you feel like

YOU MIGHT DIE!

Family can be everything, but let's face it, nothing is better than when you're GOOFING OFF WITH YOUR FRIENDS.

Like when you're blocking traffic in the hallways, or gossiping about a suspect message, or when you get separated from your friends for "excessive talking," so yes. What was that about the Pythagorean Theorem? Maybe we're a

LITTLE DISTRACTING (guess we should have paid attention.)

It's the memories, though, that you make with your people during the day that make the long days of middle school FEEL SO REAL.

PLAN IT OUT. On a field trip at The School of Mines, Drake Anderson (7), Sawyer Lee (8), and Taylor Roman (8), try to fix their gingerbread bridge. "I liked that we got to miss school and that we got to test something we have been working on in class," Anderson said. They went there for a competition to see how well their bridges would hold up for a combined STEM/FACS project.

GRANDMA IS THAT YOU? Chloe Fisher (6) is working in a rocking chair during Ms. Michelle Smith's ELA class. They were discussing one of the books they were reading for ELA. "I am with my book group in ELA and we're going slightly off topic and having a bit of a fun conversation about the book we're reading," Fisher said.

