FRESH faces

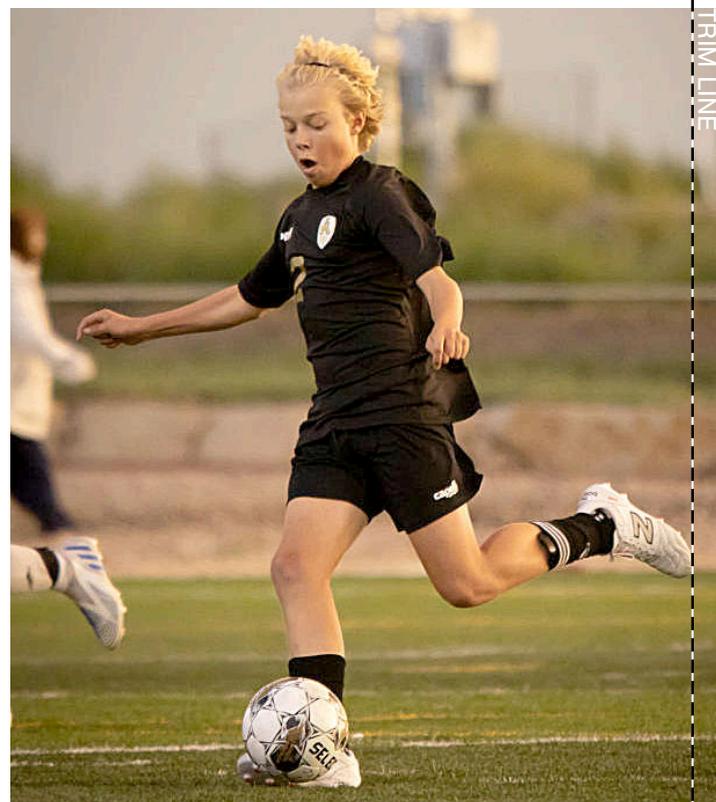

Freshmen on Varsity. Making the varsity team can be intimidating for anyone, but for freshmen it can be even more nerve-racking. "It is pretty fun. I think I am getting better and a lot faster than I would if I was on JV. I just have to try really hard and I have to put my full effort in all the time because there are kids that are really big and they can take your spot if you are not putting your full effort in," Jack Kane said. Many freshmen like Mason Spicer and Dawson Smith dedicated a lot of their time toward reaching this goal. "I have played soccer for many years now. It is a good experience and it has taught me a lot about the sport," Dawson said. Varsity is a good opportunity for players to get ready for the next level of the sport. "I am very glad that I made varsity as a freshman. I think it will help me improve a lot as a player, and I think I will be really good by the end of my senior year," Seth Lane said.

personal GROWTH

Season Improvement. The soccer season presents new challenges each year. Xander Archuleta explained how hard it was to stay motivated this season. "I think a lot of it just came from us all being pretty young and still learning how to play with each other. I think next year will be a lot better," Xander said. Despite the difficulty of the season, many players have improved upon some of their most difficult skills. Players with more experience, like Troy Brown and Luca Arroyo have gotten better at working with new teammates.

PLAY ON!

Effort to its Maximum. It takes dedication, perseverance, and hard work to move forward and improve. "I look back on previous seasons and keep building and I understand no matter how bad or good things are, I will always have the motivation to continue because I always want to get better," Ian Sloan said. His teammate Dylan Stoner feels similarly. "I feel like I stay motivated, improve, and get playing time," Dylan said. Playing soccer gives Dylan a "boost of motivation, knowing that the coach sees that I'm improving and wanting to put me out on the field." Despite their hard season, the boys soccer team is eager to improve and ready for the next season to commence.

FINDING their stride

Captains Asher Bieser and Adam Livingston were introduced to soccer by their parents. However, they fell in love with it on their own. "I knew I loved soccer when I won a Vail Valley Tournament. It was really fun and it was a good field," Adam said. Asher has been passionate about soccer for nearly eleven years. "I started to enjoy it more and get into competitive play when I was eight," Asher said. Asher and Adam would not trade soccer for the world.
